

One of the best things about Antioch is its historical record and photograph album, "Antioch Illinois, A Pictorial History, 1892-1992," with a cover by artist Jacqueline Aurelia Miller Horton. An Antioch resident from the time her folks moved here in 1940, Miller would interview people in Antioch to make her drawings accurate. Her work is on display throughout the community, at the Lakes Region Historical Society museum, and the Antioch Public Library District. This picture is from the four-color dust jacket of that book. Copies of the book are for sale at Books, Etc., 901 Main Street or at the museum, 812 Main Street.— Original watercolor by Jacqueline Horton

"When we walk along Main Street, I often think what a lovely town Antioch is"

Antioch best quest

By KENNETH PATCHEN

This is a story about the intermingled destinies of work on the Antioch News and life in the Village of Antioch.

For the village, this is the 107th year since incorporation.

For me, this is the 100th issue of the Antioch News since I began work as a reporter. People who live in Antioch love this community very much, and I'm blessed to have had this chance to write about their love.

A personal essay of opinion

Ask people why they like Antioch, and they step right up to say it is their town, and they like it because of its physical scale and its emotional content. Antioch is a small town at the intersection of the Muckwanago Trail and Sequoit Creek. With good knees, you can wander around and meet people you know and who know you. Antioch is as modern as the 56K connectivity of the studio on Lake Street that wanders the world wide web. It is as old as the core structure of St. Ignace's Episcopal Church.

"Other people claim to have a small town atmosphere, when, in reality, they are becoming small cities. It's a different feeling in Antioch," said resident Mary Marescalco. "I think those who have lived and worked here a long time have worked hard to make and keep Antioch what it is, and it shows."

Chuck Toman, and wife Elaine, have a similar view. "Antioch has been our home for over 50 years, and we can't think of anywhere else we'd rather live. Our neighbors are the greatest people, and our new neighbors are friendly also."

Chuck Toman said, "When we walk along Main Street, I often think what a lovely town Antioch is."

Although North Avenue, Orchard Street, and Route 173 are themselves classic American retail landscapes, it is the historic downtown Main Street and Lake Street combination that is one of the most valuable assets to the community.

"It's nice to go downtown and find the same shop owners in the stores and the same friendly service each time I go," said Nancy Brown. "The downtown stores are all great places to shop and conduct business."

Brown likes the Something Sweet store's old-fashioned counter, wood floor, and ceiling. It is a homemade fudge shop that opened a year ago.

Where else does Brown shop? She shops all over: Books, Etc.,

Chamber business expo offers world

More than 50 exhibitors expected at weekend event

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Chamber of Commerce officials are offering $1,000 travel vouchers to two lucky winners who travel through their annual trade and exposition show this weekend.

There will be a winner on Saturday and a winner on Sunday.

"This is our way to reward foot traffic through the show," said President Barbara Porch, of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry. "You have to visit 25 booths in the show."

That should not be too difficult. "We're currently at 50 exhibitors and anticipating a few more," said Susie Kolle, chamber marketing representative.

Local and area businesses will exhibit their merchandise and services in the north gymnasium at Antioch Community High School. The show is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Parking is available behind the high school on its east side near the tennis courts.

The show will feature exhibitors, demonstrations, give-a-ways, and entertainment for the entire family. For the first time, visitors will be able to purchase merchandise from exhibitors at the show.

"It's going great," said Kolle. She said there will be a full range of exhibitors. "Mostly they are from Antioch."

Kolle said the exposition and trade show is a good opportunity for people to learn what Antioch has to offer shoppers. "(Shoppers) are going to be exposed to businesses they may not be familiar with in Antioch and maybe find a new, close-by product and service that they can use," Kolle said. "They can create a personal relationship with the people who own their businesses here in Antioch."

"Exhibitors have the opportunity to sell merchandise," Kolle said. "They can sell anything related directly to their primary business."

To enter the travel package drawing, people who attend the expo/trade show must visit 25 of the participating merchants and businesses. "It's a $1,000 worth of travel to anywhere, one each day," said Kolle. "The winner of the travel award will have the opportunity to customize their travel plans through Travel by Design of Antioch."

Sue Ryan at Travel by Design, 345 Park Avenue, will work with the winners to make arrangements.

There will be activities for children. Face painting and nail art are two popular ones.

"AMPS will be providing food concessions," Kolle said. Antioch Music and Performance Sponsors,

'Peter and Wolf' concert leads education outreach

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Parents throughout the area are invited to bring their children to hear "Peter and the Wolf" by Serge Prokofiev at Antioch Community High School on Saturday, April 24 at 5 p.m.

The concert is the first in a series of Blue Ribbon Concerts sponsored by State Bank of The Lakes and Central Baptist Children's Home.

"Peter and the Wolf" will be played by the Sound Waves Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Richard Hynson. In addition, the Antioch Community High School Wind Ensemble will play.

Tickets are now on sale for $5, adults, and $3, students.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for students and their families to spend an evening together enjoying music," said ACHS District 117 Superintendent

Dr. Dennis Hockney. "'Peter and the Wolf' is family friendly."

Central Baptist Children's Home and State Bank of The Lakes have undertaken the Blue Ribbon Concert Series as both an educational and fund-raising opportunity. They seek to raise awareness about child abuse prevention and to support programs which help families.

"As an educational institution, we are particularly sensitive to the needs of children," Hockney said, "and one of the greatest needs of children is to feel secure, both physically and psychologically. Central Baptist Children's Home addresses the need for security for children when it is absent from their lives."

Tickets are available from area schools, State Bank of The Lakes, and the Central Baptist Children's Home. Tickets are sold by school music departments for $5 for adults and $3 for students.

That event is sponsored by the First National Bank of Chicago, 425 Lake Street, in Antioch.

School hosts meeting on referendum

Antioch Elementary Dist. 34 offers opportunity for voter education

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Lake Villa, Antioch, and Lindenhurst residents are invited to a public meeting to learn about the Antioch Community School District 34 School Bond referendum.

The meeting will be at the Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church on Thursday, April 8 at 6:30 p.m.

"People who haven't had an opportunity to be at the other meetings, ... hopefully, can make this meeting," said District 34 Superintendent Daniel Burke. "We want to get the word out there."

School officials will present the district's proposal to provide classroom space to meet increased enrollment, to improve existing facilities, and to do it in a cost effective manner.

Burke said that voters may ask questions of district officials, principals, and school board members who attend this meeting.

District 34 proposes to build a new primary school at Depot Street and Deep Lake Road with 12 sessions of kindergarten in six classrooms, 12 first grade classrooms, and learning areas such as computer labs, a library, a music room, and a gymnasium/multi-purpose room.

W. C. Petty, Oakland, and Lower Grade schools will be reorganized for grades two to five. They will be modernized to educate students at these grade levels.

Upper Grade School will receive new classrooms for growing enrollment levels. There will be improved computer labs, a library, science classrooms, and band and vocal rooms. A new gymnasium will be built with community access. The main entrance will be designed for improved security.

The State of Illinois has agreed to provide $7.1 million to help with school construction costs. The school improvements will cost $18.9 million. District 34 officials are requesting voter approval to issue bonds for $11.8 million. This means that the Illinois Capital Development Board will be paying for 37 percent of the cost.

The estimated annual cost for a taxpayer living in a $150,000 home is $89.91.

The Community Bible Church is a large white building about one mile east of the Grass Lake Road and Route 83 intersection south of Antioch. It is on the south side of the road and has convenient parking.

ACCIDENT: Bus riders not injured in Wednesday collision

Injured in the bus."

High school students on the bus were cleared to continue to school by school officials.

The motorcyclist, 33, was taken to Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge by a Flight for Life helicopter that had landed at Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church.

"The motorcyclist sustained a lot of injuries," said Sobczak. They appeared to be arm and leg injuries.

The bus received some damage in the area of the left front tire.

Participating in the rescue effort were the Lake County Sheriff's Department and the Antioch Fire Department First Fire Protection District.

The motorcyclist was listed in critical condition at the deadline for this newspaper Wednesday morning.

American Heart Association volunteer scientist Ruth Martin is at Oakland School today to teach children about the heart. "She's going to be in all five third-grade classrooms," said teacher Kim Kleisner, the heart-smart partner at the school. "For the last three years, they've had a Send-A-Scientist program."

This is the first opportunity for Oakland School to have a volunteer visit for demonstrations.

Students will learn about the heart, see some experiments, view photographs of health and unhealthy hearts, and learn how to check their pulse. Martin will visit students in the classrooms of teachers Kleisner, Michelle Menges, Charlene Bestler, Barbara Modica, and Kim Jordan.

The visit arrives during student studies in a heart-healthy unit of the science curriculum.

Antioch Rotary Club donated funds to four organizations in the area last week. Members voted to donate $1,200 to the A.L.L. The description of the Heavenly Light Beer is: "We've made a de'light'fully clean and fresh tasting beer, with a slightly spicey edge coming from American grown German style Hallertauer and Tettnanger hops." It sounds delicious. The ground breaking ceremony for the most recent downtown street construction project is Saturday, March 27 at 9 a.m. in front of Village Hall. This is not the first time sidewalks have been news.

Early on, "The Antioch News" reported on September 19, 1901: "The city fathers have made extensive improvements of Main Street during the past week by the erection of six-foot plank sidewalks."

On May 21, 1914 "The Antioch News" reported: The Village Board were out Tuesday on a tour of inspection of the sidewalks and we understand there will be several new walks built at once. We also understand that a new cement sidewalk will be put in to the depot. This would be an improvement long looked for by the traveling public."

Miss Antioch and Little Miss Antioch pageant applications will be available from the Antioch Parks and Recreation Department Monday, April 5. The deadline to submit the application with $10 is Friday, May 14 at 5 p.m. The pageant is Saturday, June 12 at 6:30 p.m.

1 to 10 years old is now underway. The egg hunt is Saturday, April 3 at 11 a.m. at Williams Park after the Easter Parade through downtown Antioch.

Children must be registered to participate in the egg hunt according to Laurie Stahl, Antioch Parks and Recreation Director.

The Easter Bunny will be present. "We're taking reservations now at the Antioch Parks Office," said Stahl. "I advise parents that they should register in advance."

Parents may register their children for $2 until Friday, April 2. "We hunt rain or shine, so pray for sun," Stahl said. There is no rain date. "We have four age groups," she said. Children 1 to 2 years old, 3 to 4 years old, 5 to 7, and 8 to 10. Each group wears a different color wrist band to help organize the groups of children.

"They'll each have their turn to go out and look for eggs. Each age group will go by itself," Stahl said. "They get 10 eggs each filled with prizes and Jelly Bellies, donated by Lakeland Publishers."

Children will be provided with plastic bags in which to place their ten collected eggs.

"Two children from each group will get a coupon in their eggs to win a special Easter basket."

The Easter Bunny will be in town. "She will be at the Senior Center on Friday and Saturday," Stahl said.

Parents can bring their own camera to take a picture with the Easter Bunny.

The Easter Bunny will be at the Antioch Area Senior Center, 817 Holbek Drive, 395-7120, on Friday, April 2 from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. and on Saturday, April 3, from noon to 3 p.m.

W.C. Petty OM team places first

A division I team of fifth grade boys from W.C. Petty Grade School placed first at the Odyssey of the Mind Far North Regional Tournament held March 20 in Libertyville.

Team members are Joe Barlow, Alex McKenzie and Steve Suhar of Lindenhurst and Andy Mitchell, Dan Roche and Ryan Smith of Antioch. Mary Jo Suhar and Rich Mitchell coach the team.

The long-term problem the boys worked on was called RatiO-Metric and challenged them to build the most efficient balsa wood and glue structure.

Their winning creation weighed 10g (approximate weight of 10 paper clips) and held 478 pounds. As part of the competition the boys performed a musical skit and were also required to answer a spontaneous problem. They will be competing at the Illinois Odyssey of the Mind Tournament held in Pekin on April 24.

Odyssey of the Mind is a creative problem solving competition and programs are in place across the United States and Canada, China, England, Japan, Mexico and several other countries. The majority of the OM activities are done after school and on weekends.

The team has been meeting since last December to determine their solution. RatiO-Metric was one of six long-term problems the team had to choose from. Some problems are more performance oriented as opposed to the design and build problem this team chose.

Jury finds man innocent in Chain deaths

A boater accused of killed two Island Lake residents on the Chain O' Lakes last summer was found guilty of a lesser charge by a Lake County Grand Jury earlier this week.

Eugene "Jay" Farrug, 37, of Woodridge, was found guilty of careless operation of a watercraft, a Class B misdemeanor punishable by up to six months in jail, and a $1,000 fine. Jurors deliberated for seven hours on March 23, following a week-long trial.

Lake County Chief Circuit Judge Raymond J. McKoski set sentencing for April 7. Farrug could have faced up to 10 to 14 years in prison if convicted of both involuntary manslaughter counts.

He escaped that when the jury acquitted him of operating a boat under the influence of alcohol.

The accident on Nippersink

Lake last September resulted in the deaths of Jan Stanley-Farragher, 44, and Patrick Conley, 39, both of Island Lake.

Farrug was driving a 23-foot Larson along with Michael S. Brawn, 27, of Palatine, the late night of Sept. 26, 1998, when it broadsided a 25-foot Baja at around 11 p.m. Stanley-Farragher and Conley were passengers in the Baja. A third passenger on the boat was also injured.

"The check-out women at Piggly-Wiggly are always so nice to me and to my children," she said.

Bernard W. Schaetten lives at the edge of downtown Antioch. He said that for health care, shopping, public safety, churches, government, and for education of community children, Antioch is a focused center. "So to sum it all up, a person could get all of your everyday needs to live and stay in the area," he said.

"It's a complete town in one place," is how Doug Ploss defines it.

People recognize this as a physical blessing of Antioch, and it has value for them. However, in almost every case, people also recognize the emotional content that flourishes in that small town setting.

"Our neighbors make living here in Antioch very nice," is how Nancy Brown said it.

Mary Marescalco said, "When I moved to Antioch and was registering my daughter for school, (Principal) Ms. Mary Kay McNeill was there walking around and introducing herself to people. She was very helpful and answered questions about the school and district. She talked to my daughter and welcomed her to Antioch School District. For myself and my 7 year old daughter, it meant a lot."

Friendly store clerks, helpful Piggly-Wiggly employees, and positive experiences with school principals are a part of the emotional content. What emerges from a random listing of 100 best attributes of the community is the theme of cooperative accomplishment, of shared social encounters.

The cooperative activity to build the Scout House, Hiram Buttrick Sawmill, or Centennial Park have not receded from village memory. This is a town that created the state's first volunteer rescue squad within its fire department in 1939. Creation of the William E. Brook Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center in the late-1990s is borne on that same spirit.

"(Centennial Park) was built strictly by volunteers and is great for family play," said Karen George-son. "There are tennis courts and baseball diamonds too. The kids love to play tag and hide 'n' seek throughout the playground's equipment maze."

The park represents one of the most potent symbols of volunteer spirit. But there is more. There are individuals who make Antioch special. There are annual celebrations, events.

"Kenneth and Betty Smouse should be declared community cultural treasures," said Barbara Goetzelman. "Their work at Antioch Community High School, PM&L and Fool's Players not only showcases Antioch talent, it also has brought many great theatrical moments to Antioch."

'Tis true. PM&L is opening its production of "Much Ado About Nothing" in about one week. This weekend, Festival Arts of Antioch, Inc. presents a production of "The Crucifixion" in the sanctuary of the Benedictine Abbey in Benet Lake, Wis. The high school music department just presented Swing Street Café and the drama department is mounting its spring play production in four weeks.

This touches upon another attribute of the emotional life of Antioch—the celebrations. "The village sponsors several days of celebrations of all kinds," said Bernard Schaetten. He is not alone in his feeling that these are part of the best of Antioch. Virtually all major community celebrations are identified by someone as a good part of being in Antioch.

Independence Day, Eggcellent Easter Egg Hunt, Taste of Antioch, Footlights, Rotary Porkchop Barbecue and Auction, Lion's Chicken Barbecue and Rescue Squad Auction, Halloween Howl, arts and crafts fairs, and all the parades offer a chance to gather the community to reaffirm a collective enjoyment of life in Antioch.

These events serve to bring people from their homes and neighborhoods and to allow them to have a sense of their larger community and emotional interconnectedness.

As a reporter, I've had almost the best porch on Main Street from which to watch the parade for two years. For 100 issues of this newspaper I have worked with Rhonda Burke, and, originally, Claudia Lenart, to present stories about all of this. It has been grand to meet so many people in this town.

The Antioch News printed its first issue on Aug. 19, 1886. If there is to be a recorded history of this village, it will start on the broadsheets of this paper. It is a wonderful experience to add to that detailed report about life in Antioch.

No one nominated The Antioch News as one of the best things about Antioch, and I did not add it to the list. I've had some very tough conversations in town with people about this paper. Regardless, it has recorded the life of this community, and I am proud to have been part of that.

I've had a chance to meet many people in Antioch and to experience many events. A few stories have been unbelievably sad to write. The remainder were primarily about people responding at their best to create a nice hometown.

There have been a lot of missed stories too. Lack of space, ineptitude, no second chances, and weak memory have cost me a chance to present other people's ideas or accomplishments.

I love working at a newspaper. I am glad I made it to issue 100. I thank Managing Editor Rhonda Burke for all of the fabulous opportunities that the Schroeder family made possible for us.

It's been "the best" for me, and it occurred in Antioch.

Amsterdam, a City Claimed from the Sea

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

As my plane taxied to the terminal at Schiphol Airport in Amsterdam, it was hard to believe that a sea battle was once fought on this very spot.

Yes, I said a sea battle. The land on which the Schiphol Airport is located was once the bottom of the sea.

In fact, over seven million of Holland's inhabitants now live on land wrested from the sea. And those hardy Dutch haven't stopped taming the mighty oceans. A new project of land reclamation will add over five percent to the nation's land area. Makes one wonder why Chicago can't keep Lake Michigan off of Lake Shore Drive!

OK, so what's there to see in this city of canals and wooden shoes?

Hop aboard one of the canal touring boats for a tour of the city. I would not suggest driving the very narrow roads that border the canals. Many a tourist has been rescued from the unguarded waterways.

You'll see the home of Rembrandt. Payments on this house put the great artist into bankruptcy.

I found a visit to the Anne Frank house a moving experience. This was where Anne Frank wrote in her diary the day-to-day ordeal of hiding from the Nazis. For more than two years, eight people lived hidden in an attic, forced to maintain nearly total silence.

For excursions outside of Amsterdam, most travel guides are going to direct you to the windmills. Frankly, I found most to be a little too touristy. I did find one working windmill still lived in on a small farm just outside a town called Weesp.

Much more impressive than the Dutch windmills are the castles not far outside of Amsterdam. Castle DeHaar, near the city of Utrecht, is right out of a fairy tale. It is open to the public when the duke is not in residence.

One last word about Amsterdam. Those ladies in the windows with the red lights are not selling lingerie!

Petty students learn computers add oomph

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Power Point software is having an impact on the fun and excitement of education among some W. C. Petty School students.

Students Chelsea Blank, 10, of Lindenhurst, and Eric Schwert, 10, of Antioch, received a taste of it at a recent meeting of Rotarians.

Both students used Power Point presentation software to report results of their class research about the northeastern United States to the Antioch Rotary Club on Thursday, March 4, at noon at Columbia Bay Brewery on Route 59.

Blank discussed her research about the Salem Witch Trials. Schwert presented comparisons of Harvard and Yale universities and Boston College. Their information was gathered as a classroom assignment, but the manner of presentation was an added dimension that required both students to use a computer to communicate with an audience.

According to their teacher Amy Henning, one of the major benefits is that work on the computers has improved student writing and research skills.

"All crimes in the 17th Century were dealt with by hanging," Blank told Rotarians. "Many cats were killed."

As she revealed these and other facts about witches and animals in Salem, Mass., the text would scoot across the screen. She not only did the research for her topic, but keyed the information, found pictures to illustrate her topic from the Internet, and included sound with the on-screen movement.

Schwert's comparison of Harvard and Yale universities and Boston College described their founding, tuition costs, academic requirements, and other features. It sounded like he planned to attend, except for his disclaimer.

"I want to go to Northwestern," he said. "The fact that my Dad went there has no influence on me."

Fourth grade students from Petty School use Power Point computer software to make presentations of their report materials. The use of computers in education at all grade levels is a fact of life.

"I have eleven computers in my classroom," said teacher Amy Henning. "We have a (school) lab of 30 computers."

Henning sees the impact on the quality of learning that is happening among her students. In addition, students are using skills to bring it all together. She herself has had to adapt her role to the changes in the classroom.

Henning assigns topics that students will study. It is their work on their personal or group topics that leads them to skills such as reading, writing, and research. Students seek information from a variety of sources: books, posters, encyclopedias, and, now, the Internet.

"These kids have learned to look in so many places for the answer." No longer do they hit one book and consider that sufficient.

"They just love it. They get so excited about it," Henning said. Making a presentation forces her students to organize their information and thoughts. She said that with Power Point, students have to think of what they want to know.

"We talk a lot about presentation," she said.

Henning said that she did not know if fourth graders could do this.

It turns out that they can and that they can help one another learn what they each know.

The benefits also will please those who cherish old standards of education. "Their writing has improved just from the computers," she said. "They're reading more than ever."

"Their five-paragraph papers are outstanding."

Henning has had to adapt also. She has students reading, researching, and writing, some using computers, and students teaching students how to do what they know. As a result, she has had to learn how to become a facilitator, a teacher who steps in when needed but otherwise gets out of the way as learning unfolds around her.

"It's a really hard role to take on," she said. She has only herself to blame. Generating excitement for her students is something she has done with her own award-winning efforts.

On Thursday, Feb. 25 Amy Henning received an award from the Regional Office of Education for "Exemplary Use of Technology" in her classroom.

Henning has worked to acquire donated computer equipment for her classroom and then has proceeded to upgrade its quality. She provides computers to other teachers as she obtains new ones.

One thing she does to help her students is to search for web sites to which she can link so students can use it as a resource for their research.

Much of this has been accomplished with her own money or with donations she receives. She found and purchased tables to put the computers on. She bought mice on her own.

As a result of this effort on her part, the students obtain experiences that link to one another and take them to new places. The research on the northeastern United States by her students put some of them on Power Point software. The success of the presentation then put them on the road to tell Rotarians about witches and Yale University.

"It just kind of snowballed. I never expected them to go to Rotary," Henning said.

Chelsea Blank is OK with it. She likes computers. "I like playing the games. I like typing."

She said that computers bring an added dimension to the learning experience that helps it become exciting. "The computer has more than books do," she said. "It is more fun than reading and reading and reading."

Schwert said, "I like that you can look up a lot of things and do a lot of things on the computer." For him, it is a versatile tool for games and research on the Internet.

Sometimes the two blend. For example, one of his favorite games is "Oregon Trail."

"You're in a covered wagon and you have to make it to Oregon from Missouri," he said. Along the way, the player has to take care of the wagon train, protect it from fires, rain, blizzards, diseases, and injuries.

"Everybody loves computers," Henning said of her fourth grade students. "It's just another extra oomph."

How 'bout them apples! Blue Devils take 2nd

Or more appropriately, how 'bout them Devils!! I was off in Centralia doing the family thing over last weekend, but trust me, I didn't miss a step.

Much to my delight, I witnessed my alma maters 59-43 dismantling of seventh-ranked Lincoln and 6-10 center Brian Cook, an Illinois-bound senior averaging 21 points and 11 rebounds per game.

They've been doing it all year with a defense that yielded just 46 points per game and held the opposition to a meager 38.5 field goal percentage.

The highly regarded Schaumburg Saxons were the next victim as the Blue Devils shut down the twin towers in Brian and John Thorsen, 6-9 and 6-7, respectively.

The fast hands, crisp passes, and excellent ball handling were all part of the clinic as Warren proved once again that size doesn't matter and defense does win games!

And, of course, the primary mastermind behind it all, head coach Chuck Ramsey, who in his six years at the helm has collected 118 victories, including a 28-5 mark this season.

Unfortunately, the Blue Devils ran out of gas in the title game, 61-51, to a very solid St. Joseph's team.

But that's not the message here. Warren made the most of their first-time trip to the state tournament, making everyone involved very proud; the school, the North Suburban Conference, Gurnee, and Lake County for that matter, showing the state to what basketball in these parts is all about.

They might have finished second down in Peoria, but around here, they're second to none!

Note: Oh, by the way, our sincere apologies to Grant High. Last week, we referred to them as the Panthers, only they are the Bulldogs! Sorry for the mix-up.

SPORTS

Youth, talent drive ACHS tennis

By JOHN PHELPS
Staff Reporter

The Antioch boys varsity tennis team lost a lot of good starters to graduation, but fourth year coach Bryan Plinske isn't about to sweat it.

"We thought it would hurt us," he said. "They'll be missed, but after seeing what we've seen in practice so far, I think we'll be in decent shape. I am particularly encouraged with the underclassman—they'll help tremendously."

Plinske squad is fairly young, with five seniors leading the way. J.J. Edwards looks to have a lock on the number one singles slot, while Dan Clarke, in his first year playing for Antioch, is in the hunt for a singles position as well.

In addition, senior Joe Kohler, a three-year player, is also vying for a singles job.

"He (Kohler) was kind of our utility man last year," said Plinske. "Whenever we needed someone to fill in at either singles or doubles, he was there."

Seniors Derek Zaloudek and Steve Arendas are vying for starting jobs in the doubles category.

Juniors Nick Kidric, Dan O'Connell, Santi Andino, Jim Gramhofer, Jason Darfler, Mike Outinen, and Nick Placko are all competing for jobs on the top three doubles teams as well.

Sophomore Jason Love, who played number two doubles on varsity last year as a freshman, is also shooting for a starting singles job.

"He asked for a shot at singles, so we're giving it to him," said Plinske.

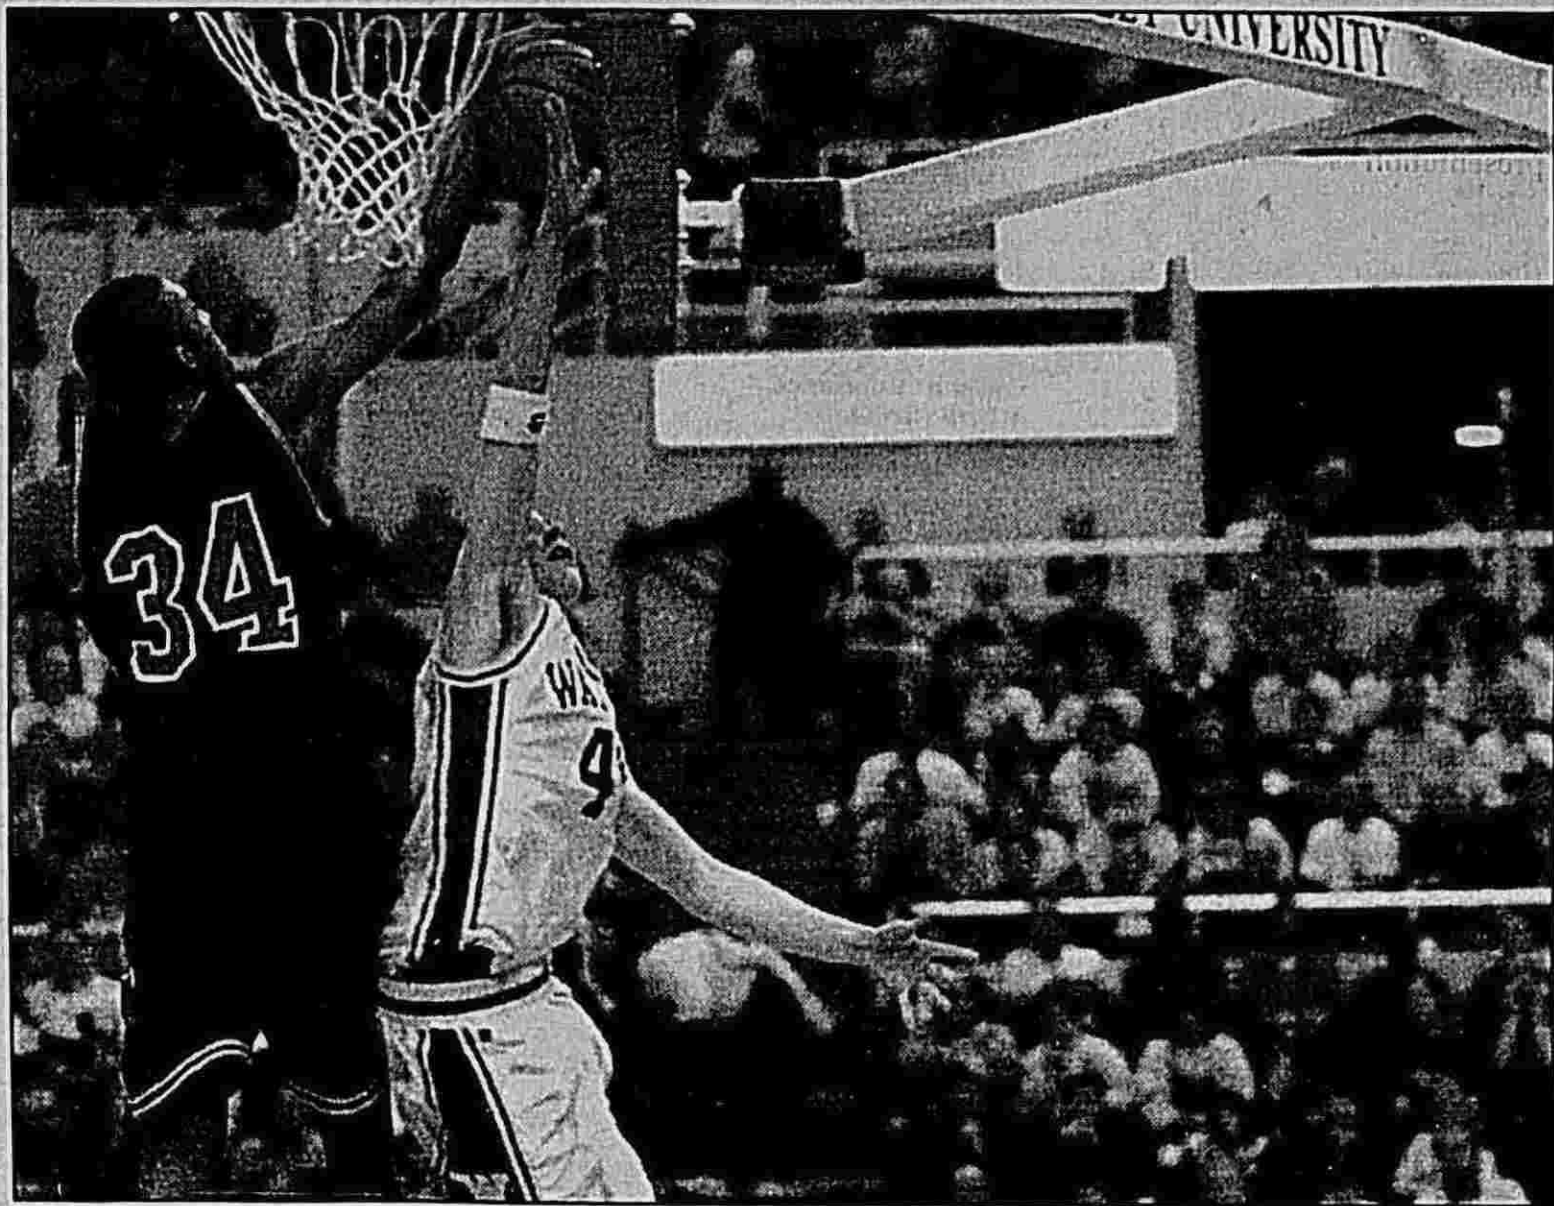

The Sequoits open the season a week from Saturday (April 3) at The Wheeling Invitational.

Last year, Antioch won its own Invitational and, according to Plinske, did pretty well at other invitational.

"Our first goal is to come home with a trophy from Wheeling," he said. "Then we'll go on to the next match, just taking it a step at a time. Overall, there are still some pieces to fill in, but the kids are really hustling and the drive is definitely there."

Last year the Sequoits finished 6-8 in dual matches, a mark Plinski hopes to better this year.

"Finishing above .500 in duals would be nice," he said.

Whoa, big fella!

Sequoits tennis ready to rumble

After a few days of practice, the Antioch boys tennis team is taking shape. There are 13 players who made the varsity team. The competition for the two starting singles spots is fierce. JJ Edwards (Sr.) is trying for his third year at varsity singles and his second year at number one. Jason Love, the lone sophomore, is trying to prove that an underclassman can play with the seniors. Joe Kohler is searching for that elusive starting spot. Dan Clarke is trying to show what a first time member of the team can do.

The competition for a starting doubles position is going to be just as tough. Nick Kidric and Dan O'Connell are trying to make the leap from number one JV to number varsity. Jim Gramhofer and Jason Darfler are going to try to stand in their way. Steve Arendas and Santi Andino are looking to dash everyone's hopes and take the number one spot. The Andino and Arendas combination should sound familiar. Steve played with Sebastian Andino, Santi's brother, last year at third doubles. Mike Outinen and Nick Placko are also trying to grab a starting spot. Derek Zaloudek is waiting on the singles results for a partner.

There is no one word that can describe this year's team. We have three or four guys that can knock the cover off the ball. We have two or three guys that are finesse players and are adept at dropping the ball inches over the net to putting it right on the baseline. The one thing that everyone has in common is that they are all competitors. Nobody is willing to give up so much as a point.

Is there family life after basketball season?

It has been said that organized sports are a good thing. They teach positive competition, the children learn to work together as a team, and they instill discipline, while at the same time they turn parents into amoebas. The 10 year old has joined the school basketball team. Mom and Dad now

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

spend their every waking moment, living, breathing, and eating basketball, not to mention chauffeuring, coaching, cheering, and comforting the player.

We are new at this, until now we have only had to bounce between piano lessons, scouts and gymnastics. Each was on their own night, once a week, and presented no conflict. Basketball began with three games a week and two practices. At game number three, the statement came out of a crowd of parents as to how taxing the while season was—then the coach presented us with the tournament schedule.

Not only were we faced with five week nights of basketball in some capacity, but then they threw in a game either Saturday or Sunday just to make sure the kids didn't lose their momentum. One has to wonder why, as two married adults with spare time to burn, we ever decided to have children and why, as two consenting adults, we ever agreed to let those offspring join a sport. Who knew when we signed on the dotted line and sent in our registration check that any spare time that was ours to, let say, breathe, would be snatched away.

Meanwhile, sports moms and dads alike sit at each game with their hearts in their throats watching their child's team mature before their very eyes. What a humbling experience. They're team members are still learning, still growing.

There are untied laces being tied in the middle of the game, shots at the opponents basket, and even a couple of tears. But they are blossoming, they are blooming, they are developing into a well tuned machine, working with each other for a common goal—kick the pants off the opponent.

So as parents, while we perfect our skills of counting change while taking admissions, making nachos at the concession stand, and anticipating a referees whistle as game clock keeper, our children learn the aspects of a team sport.

To much delight of a few giggled parents, the play-offs are in sight, and an end to the season is near. Just when we thought we could regain some semblance to our life, and breathe a little sigh of relief, we are confronted with yet another set back. Along with all the usual papers and projects in our child's backpack today, came a piece of paper so scary the hair stood up on the back of my neck. Laying before me are the registrations forms for baseball—I believe our adult life, as we knew it, has ceased to exist.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Is there family life after basketball season?

It has been said that organized sports are a good thing. They teach positive competition, the children learn to work together as a team, and they instill discipline, while at the same time they turn parents into amoebas. The 10 year old has joined the school basketball team. Mom and Dad now spend their every waking moment, living, breathing, and eating basketball, not to mention chauffeuring, coaching, cheering, and comforting the player.

We are new at this, until now we have only had to bounce between piano lessons, scouts and gymnastics. Each was on their own night, once a week, and presented no conflict. Basketball began with three games a week and two practices. At game number three, the statement came out of a crowd of parents as to how taxing the while season was—then the coach presented us with the tournament schedule.

Not only were we faced with five week nights of basketball in some capacity, but then they threw in a game either Saturday or Sunday just to make sure the kids didn't lose their momentum. One has to wonder why, as two married adults with spare time to burn, we ever decided to have children and why, as two consenting adults, we ever agreed to let those offspring join a sport. Who knew when we signed on the dotted line and sent in our registration check that any spare time that was ours to, let say, breathe, would be snatched away.

Meanwhile, sports moms and dads alike sit at each game with their hearts in their throats watching their child's team mature before their very eyes. What a humbling experience. They're team members are still learning, still growing.

There are untied laces being tied in the middle of the game, shots at the opponents basket, and even a couple of tears. But they are blossoming, they are blooming, they are developing into a well tuned machine, working with each other for a common goal—kick the pants off the opponent.

So as parents, while we perfect our skills of counting change while taking admissions, making nachos at the concession stand, and anticipating a referees whistle as game clock keeper, our children learn the aspects of a team sport.

To much delight of a few haggled parents, the play-offs are in sight, and an end to the season is near. Just when we thought we could regain some semblance to our life, and breathe a little sigh of relief, we are confronted with yet another set back. Along with all the usual papers and projects in our child's backpack today, came a piece of paper so scary the hair stood up on the back of my neck. Laying before me are the registrations forms for baseball—I believe our adult life, as we knew it, has ceased to exist.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Fostering Hope

Foster care mother and son share experience, give advice on making the relationship work

By ANGELA D. SYKORA
Staff Reporter

The Central Baptist Children's Home in Lake Villa welcomed back a very special former resident, Mike Stapley-Brown, along with his adoptive mother Toni Rey, in a moving evening.

The pair spoke to a group of foster parents about what foster care life was like for both of them. It was an evening of heartwarming honesty and reflection.

Concerned parents looked to Mike and Toni for advice on how to care for and understand their own foster children, and they looked to each other for moral support through what is often a challenging time.

Central Baptist Children's Home and Family Services was founded in 1895 by Reverend and Mrs. Ezra Scofield and began as an orphanage for homeless and abandoned children. Today, it is a multifunctional, non-profit, and non-denominational child welfare agency that serves more than 8,000 families a year. They have over 26 community-based offices.

In addition to foster family care and adoption, Central Baptist has child development centers, child abuse prevention services, child and family counseling, psychotherapy, residential care, youth crisis intervention, and mental health services for emotionally disturbed children.

Their mandate has been "Til Every Child is Safe." This year, they have been working extra hard to make that vision a reality. Their goal is to offer a full array of services to every child and every family in need. They have recently opened new offices in Chicago in the old Sears building in Homan Square. They've also begun a foster grandparent program.

Mike Stapley-Brown, now 36 years-old, first came to Central Baptist when he was six. He had been shuffled around from foster home to foster home when his natural mother could not care for him due to mental illness. It was through Central Baptist that Mike found Toni Rey, an elementary school teacher who would change his life for the better.

For Mike, Central Baptist has been an integral part of his life from childhood to adulthood. He spent many years at the home, being angry and confused.

As a small child he couldn't understand why he had to be apart from his natural mother. He says now it was because she was schizophrenic, something he would not have been able to comprehend at such a young age. But, he doesn't think it would have made much of a difference. He still felt hurt and abandoned.

Reflecting back, Mike said, "As bad of a place as this was, it was the only stability I'd had for six years. I cried when I left."

Foster children often create a wall around them few people can break through.

"I had to shut everything down," said Mike. "You don't get close to anyone."

Toni was Mike's third grade special education teacher when he resided at Central Baptist.

"I was really attached to him," said Toni, now a licensed clinical social worker.

"I became a foster parent because this was the kid I wanted."

It was with much resistance that Mike came to live with Toni when he was 12 and a half. As a child, he visited their family regularly, but this would be a new experience for everyone.

"This had to be a family decision," said Toni, who already had three natural children of her own. She had to ask herself if this was something that would be good for her children and her marriage.

Having a foster child would be a big adjustment for everyone, including Mike who was often confrontational and resistant to Toni's authority.

"Take what a normal teenager would be like and multiply it by a hundred times," said Mike about his behavioral problems.

"I didn't trust. I didn't know how to love, or how to be loved."

Not knowing how to address his new foster mother was awkward for Mike.

"He wouldn't call me anything," said Toni.

According to Toni, Mike was always testing her love by pushing her away, something most foster children do when they fear abandonment. However, such tests can mark the beginning of a trusting relationship. A foster child will test limits only when he or she is confident the foster parent won't leave them, regardless of how "bad" they act.

Getting Mike to accept Toni as a parent, with the right to discipline, was a constant challenge.

He was still holding out hope that he would one day be reunited with his natural mother, something that never happened. Toni said Mike's natural mother would occasionally send cards at Christmas or on birthdays, and that she wanted to "throw them away."

Too often, natural parents will slip randomly in and out of their child's lives, only to cause more confusion, hurt, and frustration. As a teacher, Toni saw first-hand the damaging affects this can have on a child's mental and emotional health.

"When I taught in the Lake Villa school system, at that time we had a lot of kids living here at the Baptist Home," said Toni.

"We would see them after the weekend on Monday morning, after they had been home to see their natural families. We used to say school was hell on wheels that day."

Senior Vice President at Central Baptist, Ed Buchs, said things are very different now.

"The law requires the parents to be much more involved early on to determine whether or not the kids can go home. Parents are given nine to 12 months to resolve their issues and correct the conditions that resulted in the children being moved," said Buchs.

It takes great patience and love to raise a child who is not your own. Some foster parents give up before they ever have a true breakthrough and form a bond with the child.

Dear Lake County Voter:

We are pleased to provide this Voter Information Guide to help familiarize yourself with the candidates and referendum in the April 13, 1999 Consolidated Election.

Please refer to your blue Certificate of Voter Registration card. Below the fold line you will see a list of the units of government for which you are entitled to vote. Use the list as a guide to locate the ballot pages in this publication containing candidates and any public questions which are applicable to you. Units of government common to all Lake County voters are U.S. President, U.S. Senate, state-wide and county-wide offices and are not listed due to space limitations. If your blue card is not readily available, please call us at 360-6628 for assistance.

Your precinct number and polling location are also listed on the blue card. When a polling facility declines to continue as a voting site, we always send new blue cards with updated information. Please take the time to verify your polling place in this guide and determine that the blue card you carry is current. All polling locations are listed by township in precinct number order and are accessible for the disabled. Any voting locations which changed this year are listed in bold type.

Please note, if you moved or changed your name more than 30 days before the April 13, 1999 election, and have not yet updated your registration, you will not be able to vote on April 13th.

All of us in the County Clerk's office are dedicated to providing you the best possible service. Please do not hesitate to call us at 360-6628, or use our TTY/TDD service at 625-7220, if you have questions or need clarification about the voting process on election day.

Very truly yours,

Willard R. Helander
Lake County Clerk

Pink flamingos flock to Lake County

Wauconda collector shares home with 75 pink flamingos

Pink flamingos are usually found in warm climate locales, where the sun shines year-round and the temperature rarely dips below chilly. How fortunate then is the Wauconda Area Library, which this month has been the honored guest of a gaggle of the funny, furry birds, on loan from Patricia Rossman.

Rossman usually has her pink friends roosting in the Flamingo room of her home. Their stay in the library's front lobby display case is the first time they have been out on exhibition.

Although their stay is short, they have brought smiles on dreary gray days.

"The display is absolutely darling," said Pam Hoge, adult services librarian. "There are a wide variety of pink flamingos and they have come to flock at the Wauconda Library."

Rossman has been collecting eclectic versions of pink flamingos for 15 years.

The collection started with a simple item.

Rossman was in a large department store looking for a watering can, when she saw one with a pink flamingo on it.

Since then, Rossman said anytime she saw something with pink flamingos, she bought it.

"Over the years, I eliminated some of the more tacky stuff, and I kept the more expensive ones," she said.

Among the more common items in her collection are coffee mugs and a soap dispenser.

Some of the more uncommon items are a stained glass picture created by her Florida-based sister, a pink flamingo flower pot and miniature glass figurines.

There are two John Long drawings in her collection, both featuring pink flamingos out on the town. Rossman bought the pictures at the Highland Park Art Festival from the artist.

Rossman spent time setting up her display, sometimes returning to rearrange a few items.

Some of the more humorous aspects of the display are three pink flamingo Beanie Babies reading a library book on flamingos. Rossman also has a Meanie Baby in her collection called Phlegmingo, with green phlegm dripping out of his beak.

Fluffy pink flamingo slippers are on a shelf, as is a glass oil lamp in the shape of—you guessed it—a pink flamingo.

Rossman has a pink flamingo soft sculpture she purchased in a gift shop in Saratoga Springs, New York. She carried it home with her on an airplane, with its little head peaking out of the bag.

"He is kind of special," she said.

The flamingos range in size from the 1-inch glass miniatures to 4-foot wooden figurines.

Rossman also has two flags and a 5-foot tall wind harp not in the library display.

Another one of Rossman's favorites is named Flo. She is a wooden pink flamingo wearing a little bikini, pointed high heels and glasses.

"They are all kind of special," she said.

In all, Rossman estimates she has 75 different pink flamingo items, including two dozen pink flamingo blow-up dolls that come out for special occasions.

"Some of them reside in the garage until I need them for special occasions," she said. "I get a lot of them as gifts."

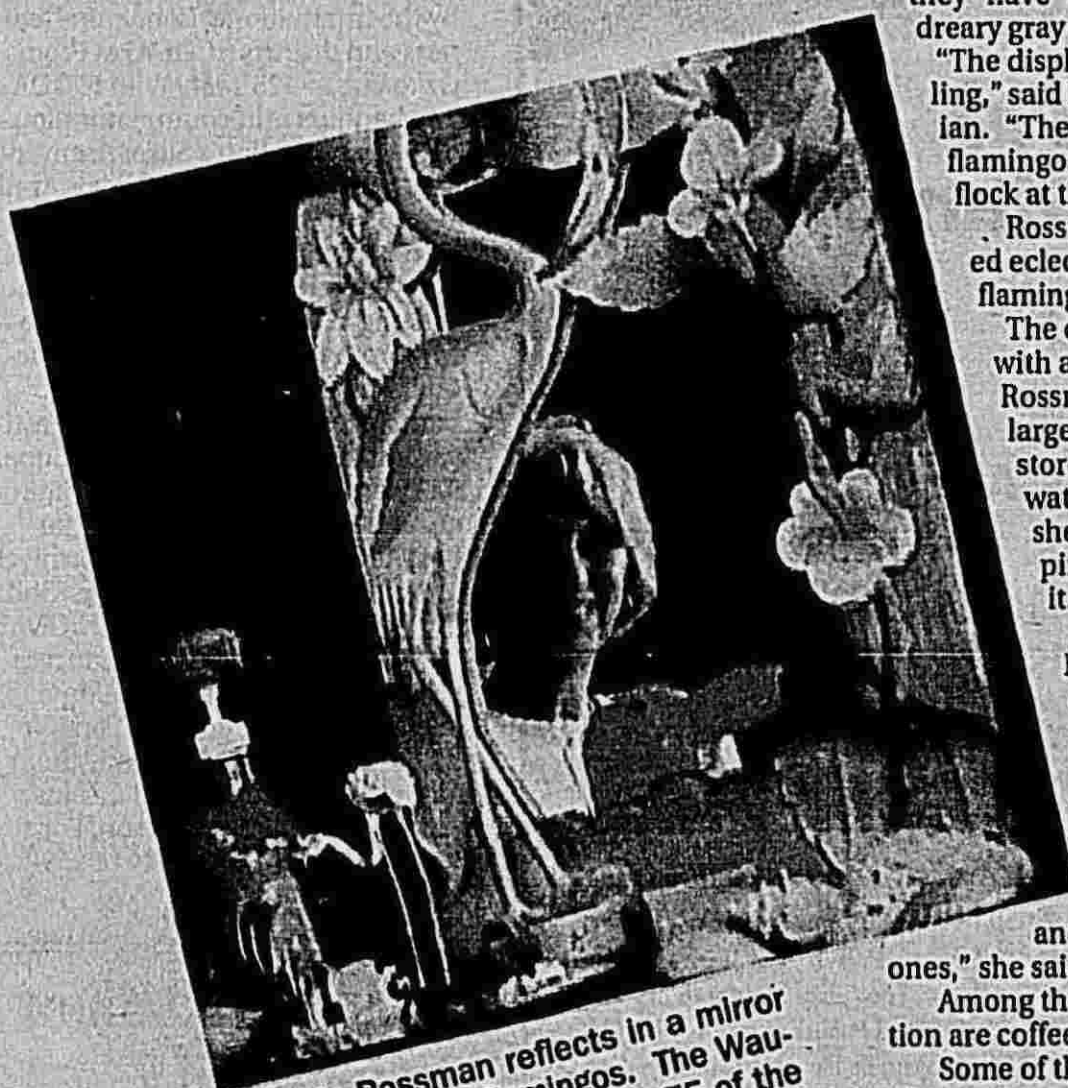

Rossman has lived in Wauconda since this past July, and has lived in Illinois for four years, moving from Michigan.

When she moved, her pink flamingos followed.

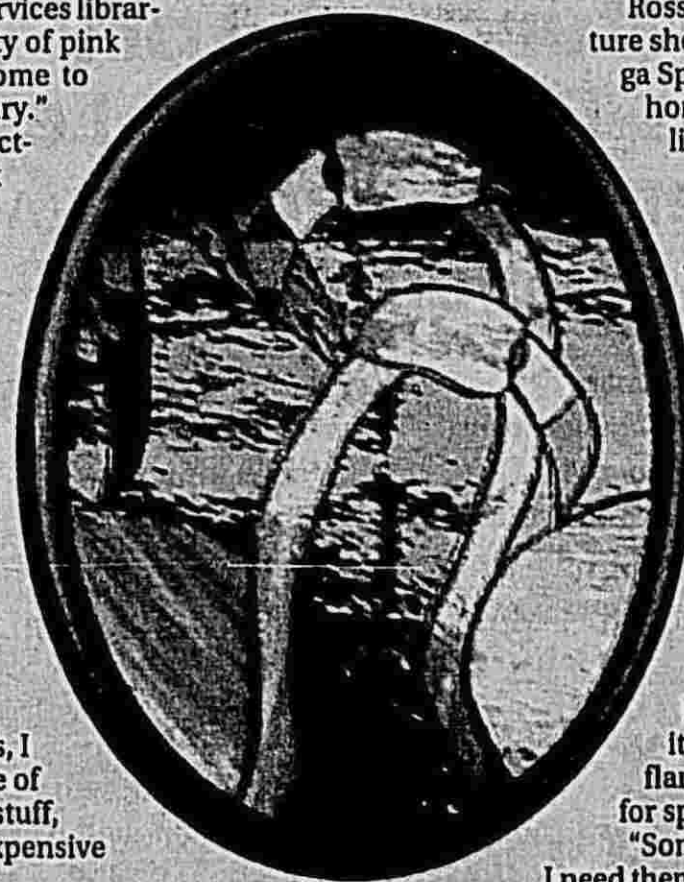

"They are just as inappropriate and silly in Michigan as they are in Illinois," she said.

Rossman originally wanted to display them in the children's department display case, but that was booked through July. Then she found out about an opening in front lobby display case, and accepted it right away.

"If you are going to show something silly like this, it needs to be in the winter," Rossman said.

Patricia Rossman reflects in a mirror edged with pink flamingos. The Wauconda resident has at least 75 of the creatures around her home. The stained-glass art work was a gift from her sister. Her collection is on display at the Wauconda Library.—Photos by Spencer Schein

Life with some kids will keep you in stitches

Most kids believe their parents to be almost Godlike in their wisdom, until they near the teenage years, when they suddenly look at you as though there's a dunce cap permanently attached to the top of your skull.

And then there are the other kids. I have a theory that these kids are born with what I like to call "the Missouri gene." They are actually easy to identify—most of them emerge from the womb with one eyebrow raised, as if to say, "Oh, yeah? Show me!"

If your child does not have this eyebrow characteristic, but you're still wondering whether they have the gene, here's a quick test you can conduct once they begin to understand language. It goes like this:

Preheat the oven as you begin preparing dinner. If your toddler approaches the oven, warn him or her of the danger. "Don't touch—that's hot!"

Children without the Missouri gene will immediately begin to back away. Children with the Missouri gene will bravely extend their finger in the direction of the stove, while smiling defiantly and moving forward. Only after they actually touch it will they believe you.

"Owwee! Hot!"

My kids are evenly divided in this category—2 of each, although my youngest has been vying since birth to become "Queen of Missouri." Since she was 2-years-old, her favorite response to any warning has been a look of utter disdain accompanied by these two little words: "Yeah. Right."

Which is why her recent trip to the emergency room is not too surprising.

Apparently, while I was at work and my husband was busy on the phone, the Queen decided she needed a carrot. However, the problem with a carrot is that one end has a green thing sticking out of it, and we all know that children avoid green things like the plague. The green thing had to go.

Bear in mind that the Queen had been instructed (over and over and...) not to use sharp knives. So she compromised—she used a butter knife, no doubt figuring that if she got caught, she could claim that butter knives aren't sharp.

Which could be true, except that we had recently bought new silverware, and the new butter knives have serrated edges. So the Queen, blissfully unaware, began to saw away at the end of the carrot while holding it in her hand!

Minutes later, my husband hung up the phone and was dismayed to find a bloody trail leading out of the kitchen...with the Queen nowhere in sight. He called her name—no answer. Scared, he followed the trail to the bathroom. There she was, holding her hand underwater as she tried to stop the bleeding. As soon as she saw my husband, she said, "It was an accident!"

From that point on, she would say no more about it. That was her story, and she was sticking to it. The only reason we knew what happened at all is because she put the bloody knife, along with the carrot, back in the drawer!

In the car, when I tried to explain to her that what happened was a direct result of using knives before she's old enough, she sighed and said, "You can go back to work now, Mommy." (It's a weird feeling to be "dismissed" by a 5-year-old!) Even at the emergency room, she refused to elaborate, mainly because she didn't want a lecture. As far as she was concerned, it did not happen because she was too young for knives. It was an accident. End of story.

She still won't talk about it, but if you ask to see her stitches, she'll proudly hold up her middle finger (too proudly, if you ask me).

In the meantime, I've had several people tell me, "I bet she won't do that again!"

Considering that two days later I caught her trying to cut off the bandage with scissors, I'd have to say I'll take that bet...

...and I'll raise you two.

'The Wizard of Oz' at the Rosemont Theatre

Sixty years after the movie first entranced audiences, now America's most beloved tale, The Wizard of Oz comes musically and magically to life at the Rosemont Theatre. Radio City Entertainment's production of The Wizard of Oz starring Hollywood icon Lillane Montevecchi as The Wicked Witch, pays homage to the 1939 film in loving detail running through March 28 at the Rosemont Theatre.

This timeless tale, written by Chicago storyteller L. Frank Baum ninety-nine years ago, follows the story of Dorothy, The Scarecrow, The Tin Man, The Lion and Toto, as they journey to Oz seeking their heart's desires, encountering Glinda the Good Witch, the citizens of Munchkinland, The Wicked Witch of the West and The Wizard, himself, along the way.

Nominated for a 1998 Best Cast Recording Grammy Award, Radio City Entertainment's The Wizard of Oz Begins in black-and-white imagery and turns into a rainbow of color upon Dorothy's arrival in Munchkinland by way of the tornado. Also included in the Chicago Jefferson (Jeff) Award-winning production is the "Jitterbug" number which did not appear in the film's final cut.

Seventeen-year-old Jessica Grové, has filled the ruby slippers made famous by Judy Garland and has captivated critics and audiences alike with her show-stopping rendition of the classic "Over the Rainbow," Garland's signature tune from the role that made her famous.

Rosemont Theatre performances of The Wizard of Oz, sponsored by COLD-EEZE, are scheduled for Friday, March 26; noon, 4 pm and 7:30 pm Saturday, March 27; and 1 pm and 4:30 pm Sunday, March 28. The performance runs 90 minutes, with no intermission.

Blues legend Koko Taylor to perform at CLC

Koko Taylor, the undisputed queen of the blues, will perform in concert at 8 p.m. on March 27 at the College of Lake County's Mainstage Theatre in Grayslake. Tickets are $15 for CLC students, alumni and seniors 65 and over; $18 for the general public and $8 for children under 12.

For more than four decades, Taylor has dominated the blues world as a powerful singer and an inspiring entertainer. Her hard work and total dedication to her songs has earned her the respect of her colleagues and critics alike and has brought her success to a world that is usually male dominated. Over the course of her illustrious 30-year career, Taylor has taken her music from the small clubs on the south side of Chicago to giant concert halls and festivals around the world.

Born in Memphis, Tenn., Taylor's interest in blues music was influenced by artists like Bessie Smith, Sonny Boy Williamson and Big Mama Thornton. At age 18, she moved to Chicago's south side, the cradle of the rough-edged sounds of Chicago blues. After performing at various night clubs, Taylor's musical talent was discovered by the late composer Willie Dixon, who put her on the Chess Records roster that included famous blues artists like Howlin' Wolf and Muddy Waters. Since then, she has recorded seven award-winning albums with Chess Records and later with Alligator Records, including "I Got What It Takes" and "Force of Nature," her latest album. Currently, she is working on her eighth album.

Throughout her distinguished career, Taylor has received just about every award the blues world has to offer. She won the W.C. Handy Award, the Grammy of the blues community, 15 times, making her the only female blues artist to have earned such a coveted honor. She received Grammy nominations for five of her six Alligator recordings and won a Grammy in 1984.

For tickets, call 543-2300. Advance ticket purchase is strongly advised. Credit cards are accepted.

An example of the variety of folk art exhibited at the Country Collections craft and Folk Art Faire held at Harper College in Palatine—Submitted photo

Country Collection presents the 'The lodge look'

For some the Lodge Look implies massive log homes, big sky country, and towering mountains. If you grew up on the Chicago area, however, the memories that spring to mind can be quite different.

The Lodge Look is Mom and Dad pouring over fishing resort pamphlets on a cold winter morning. It is a pre-dawn August departure, riding bundled in the back of a station wagon, and being awakened when crossing the Wisconsin or Michigan border as the sun began to rise.

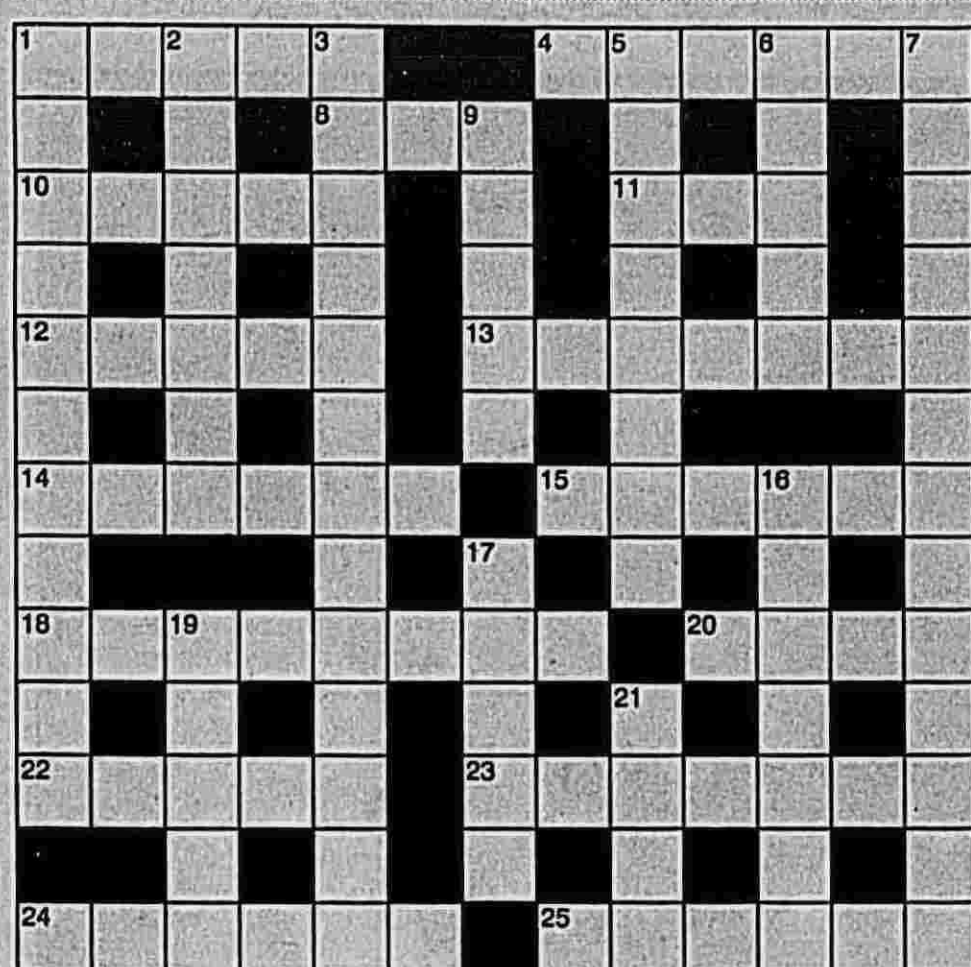

Come to The Country Collections Traditional Craft and Folk Art Faire at Harper College in Palatine, April 9, 10, 11, and rekindle some of those memories. The hand painted signs from Trall's End Art offer the same promises as the local bait shop.

Join these and ninety other folk artists and country crafters at Harper College this spring.

Harper College is located at the intersections of Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine. Show time are Friday, April 9, 3-9 p.m., Saturday April 10, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., and Sunday April 11, 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults and children twelve and under are admitted free. Think before you speak when it comes to a run-in with a family member late in the week, Aries. Letting your anger get the best of you only will make matters worse. Remain calm, and try to see your loved one's point of view. A friend needs someone to talk to. Be there for him or her.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Don't stress out when you realize how many things you have to do this week, Taurus. You can handle it all if you just stay calm. Turn to that special someone when you get too nervous; he or she always has been able to help you relax. A business associate asks for your advice. Be honest with him or her.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

While you generally like to be on the go, enjoy the peace and quiet you get this week, Gemini. It's been quite some time since you've been able to do nothing. Revel in it. That special someone takes you out for a night on the town this weekend. Enjoy yourself. Cancer plays a key role.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

A business associate lets you in on a company secret. While it's enticing, don't share what you've been told with anyone. It's not your place to spread the news. A close friend makes a big announcement. While you are surprised, be happy for him or her. Libra is involved.

Leo — July 23/August 23

A loved one turns to you in a time of crisis. While you're upset with him or her for getting into such a sticky situation, offer your assistance. Once the matter is resolved, you can yell at this person all that you want. An acquaintance hopes to get to know you better. Think about how you really feel before answering him or her.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't make a rash decision when it comes to your finances early in the week, Virgo. While you're offered a potentially lucrative deal, isn't it too risky? Look at all of the pros and cons before giving your answer. The person whom you've been seeing doesn't call. Build up your courage to call him or her. It will be worthwhile.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

There have been so many things that you've wanted to do lately. Well, you have the chance to do them this week. Your schedule is clear, and you have the energy. Get moving! You'll be glad that you did. Aries plays a key role on Thursday.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

Control your ego when meeting with business associates this week, Scorpio. They already respect your work. Talking about yourself only will make them think less of you. A loved one asks to borrow money. Do what you can, but don't get yourself into financial straits.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't let a disagreement with an acquaintance spoil your good mood early in the week. You have a lot going for you; this minor setback shouldn't ruin your attitude.

The person whom you've been seeing wants to get more serious. Say yes — this is what you've been waiting for.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

A loved one asks you to make an important decision. Don't let him or her pressure you into doing something that you disagree with. Look at the situation, and think about what is best for everyone involved. A friend of a friend drops by unexpectedly. Listen to what he or she has to say.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

You're on your own this week when it comes to your personal life, Aquarius. While you are upset at first, don't be. You finally have the time to do things for yourself instead of for everyone else. Pamper yourself — you deserve it. Leo plays an important role late in the week.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

You feel like a third wheel at a social outing this week. Don't stay at the event just because you think that you have to. Sometimes, you must do things for yourself — this is one of those times. Go out with some friends, and enjoy yourself. No one will fault you for this.

'True Crime' should be Eastwood's last film

Have you ever seen a movie about a poor black man who was in the wrong place at the wrong time and accused of a crime? Have you ever read a book about that? Of course you have, it's one of the oldest plotlines in Hollywood. The original, and still best use of this plotline is "To Kill a

movie review

Brendan O'Neill

"Mockingbird,"—the book and the movie.

In this most recent adaptation, Clint Eastwood plays Steve Everett, an old, washed-up loser of a newspaper reporter who has a penchant for sleeping around—usually with his boss' wife.

Everett is a loser in every phase of his life. His marriage is on the rocks, purely by his doing, he is a terrible, absent father to a daughter young enough to be his granddaughter, and his professional life is held together by threads after he wrote an accusatory investigative story that turned out to be wrong.

Everett's career is nearly over, but old buddy Alan Mann (James Woods) gives him one last chance at the Los Angeles Tribune. Mann is Everett's executive editor, and the two have a strangely friendly adversarial relationship. The new managing editor, Bob Findley, played by Denis Leary, dislikes Everett from the start, which doesn't help things when he finds out that Everett is sleeping with his wife.

Everett is known to be a reporter who creates big investigative pieces out of small, easy assignments, and Findley does not want that to happen with his most recent assignment.

Six years prior, a black man named Frank Beachum was arrested and charged with the murder of a pregnant teenager, and was sentenced to the death penalty. Everett's job is to interview Beachum (Isaiah Washington) and write a fluffy human-interest story about this man on death row.

But, of course, he digs further into the circumstances of the murder, and does some investigation of his own.

Working off of "hunches" and his "nose for news" Everett uncovers in a matter of hours what the police department could not figure out in six years—Beachum was not the murderer.

And so the film tailspins into a "beat the clock" movie, where Everett is trying to gather enough evidence to prove Beachum's innocence and have him pardoned before he is to be executed.

I hope that this is the last time we see Eastwood in front of the camera, at least in this type of tough, leading-man role. He plays director and actor in this movie, and I think he is best used behind the camera than in front of it.

He looks very old, and his weather-beaten face shows little signs of the all-American tough cop we knew in the "Dirty Harry" movies. He seems frail and out of his element in "True Crime."

The beautiful Poitier plays the small role of Findley's assistant, and adds a likeability to an otherwise minor role. She should make some waves in the acting industry in years to come.

Based on Eastwood's performance and the boring plotline, I give "True Crime" two out of five popcorn boxes.

Menu:
Chicago Style Hot Dogs, charburgers, turkey and veggie burgers, and homemade chili.

Michael's style is red hot

Michael's Chicago Style Red Hots, located at 217 Center Street in downtown Grayslake, serves the all American hot dog, the way it was meant to be served by taking an all beef wiener made with a natural casing, popping it into a steamed poppy seed bun, and garnishing it with ketchup, mustard, relish, onions, pickles, hot peppers and celery salt.

Owner Richard Cohen, who was associated with the original Michael's started 20 years ago in Highland Park, has brought the Chicago

Style Hot Dog, one of the city's most famous culinary exports, to Lake County, making it another in a small chain that includes a location in Buffalo Grove.

Cohen welcomes his customers in a home-town atmosphere filled with Grayslake photos and antiques, where they can dine in, or take advantage of Michael's long list of take out favorites.

Since the hot dog is as American as the hamburger, Michael's also offers scrumptious charburgers, plus veggie and turkey burgers, for those who want to eat well and healthy.

A delicious chicken breast sandwich or a spicy Italian beef sandwich, as well as delectable homemade chili and fresh hand-cut French fries are popular additions to Michael's outstanding menu.

Michael's is open from 10:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day but Sunday when the hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Starting in April, the daily hours will be expanded to 9 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Sunday. Call (847) 548-7130 for more information.

SPOTLIGHT: Michael's

Location:
217 Center St., in Grayslake

Telephone:
(847) 548-7130

Hours:
Starting in April, from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, and from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

Menu:
Chicago Style Hot Dogs, charburgers, turkey and veggie burgers, and homemade chili.

Michael's style is red hot

Michael's Chicago Style Red Hots, located at 217 Center Street in downtown Grayslake, serves the all American hot dog, the way it was meant to be served by taking an all beef wiener made with a natural casing, popping it into a steamed poppy seed bun, and garnishing it with ketchup, mustard, relish, onions, pickles, hot peppers and celery salt.

Owner Richard Cohen, who was associated with the original Michael's started 20 years ago in Highland Park, has brought the Chicago

Style Hot Dog, one of the city's most famous culinary exports, to Lake County, making it another in a small chain that includes a location in Buffalo Grove.

Cohen welcomes his customers in a hometown atmosphere filled with Grayslake photos and antiques, where they can dine in, or take advantage of Michael's long list of take out favorites.

Since the hot dog is as American as the hamburger, Michael's also offers scrumptious charburgers, plus veggie and turkey burgers, for those who want to eat well and healthy.

A delicious chicken breast sandwich or a spicy Italian beef sandwich, as well as delectable homemade chili and fresh hand-cut French fries are popular additions to Michael's outstanding menu.

Michael's is open from 10:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day but Sunday when the hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Starting in April, the daily hours will be expanded to 9 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Sunday. Call (847) 548-7130 for more information.

AARP joins the battle against Medicare fraud

Remember Willie Sutton? When asked why he robbed banks, Sutton answered, "Because that's where the money is." These days, there's a lot of money in the federal Medicare program for senior citizens—but too much of it is draining away through waste, fraud and abuse.

According to government audits, billions of dollars in Medicare charges are fraudulent. Those billions lost to waste, fraud and abuse come out of our pockets in the form of taxes, higher premium payments and reduced benefits for Medicare recipients. Who pays? You pay. Medicare fraud is not a victimless crime. Waste, fraud and abuse make health care more expensive for all of us, and in some instances, diminish the quality of health care.

That's why AARP and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has launched a nationwide public education campaign to teach Medicare beneficiaries and their families how to spot suspicious Medicare charges. The campaign—the largest in the 34 year history of Medicare—will enroll thousands of AARP members and others across the country as volunteer Fraud Fighters, working in concert with investigators from HHS and the U.S. Department of Justice.

"In 1996, a congressional report stated that senior citizens are our best frontline defense against waste fraud and abuse," said AARP Illinois State President Frank Sorenson of Macomb. "The main goal of our public education campaign is to motivate Illinois' 1.6 million Medicare beneficiaries to review their Medicare statements and report any questionable charges they may find."

Most providers are honest and their bills are legitimate. But with more than 900 million claims filed each year, it's easy for a dishonest provider to try to steal from Medicare. Some of the most common types of fraud include billing for services not provided; double billing; misrepresenting a diagnosis; or soliciting, offering or receiving a "referral fee."

AARP, HHS and the Department of Justice kicked off the "Who Pays? You Pay" Medicare Fraud campaign with a nationwide satellite television news conference on Feb. 24. The 31-city news conference featured U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno, HHS Secretary Donna Shalala, and state and national AARP leaders, as well as local U.S. attorneys and FBI agents. Over the course of the year, AARP will continue to hold community training sessions and distribute Medicare Fraud information to its 32 million members.

AARP research indicates that consumers strongly believe it's their personal responsibility to report Medicare Fraud. Here's what you can do to become a Fraud Fighter: check your Medicare statement and answer these three simple questions:

1. Did you receive the service or product for which Medicare is being billed?

2. Did your doctor order the service or product for you?

3. To the best of your knowledge, is the service or product relevant to your diagnosis or treatment?

"Remember, most providers are honest and a questionable charge may be the result of a simple billing error. That's why you should call your provider first," Sorenson said. "But if you call them and you're still not sure the answer is satisfactory, don't be afraid to report it. If you think you're dealing with Medicare Fraud, call the Medicare Fraud Hotline at 1 (800) 447-8477."

The hotline is staffed by members of the HHS Inspector General's Office. An operator will ask you for the details of your case and assign a case number. Every case will be reviewed. And while your call may not result in the filing of any criminal charges, Medicare may seek a recovery. Every call counts, because investigators often make their cases based on a pattern of abuse rather than a single incident.

For a free copy of the AARP's brochure, "Your Three-Step Plan to Fight Medicare Fraud," call AARP's Illinois Information Center at (312) 372-2277 or write AARP at 222 N. LaSalle St., 1st Floor, Chicago, IL 60601. Ask for brochure number D-16660.

Staying healthy, safe on the computer: Tips for computer users

You're free from the confines of the cubicle farm. You work at home or in a small office. Lunch is when you're hungry. A break is a stroll around the block. However, there are the drawbacks like working hunched over the dining room table, sitting for hours on end in a chair from the '70s, and that overhead lighting may be great for dinner parties, but it's not exactly helping you finalize that proposal.

In fact, you may be part of the 30 percent of all computer users who suffer from some form of work-related discomfort. Preventing injuries associated with excessive computer use, such as cumulative trauma disorders, is even more essential for those who work from home or in small offices without the proper tools.

Tom Albin, a professional ergonomist with 3M, provides the following simple tips to help ensure home and small office workers reduce their risk of strains and pains.

Posture perfect

Proper posture is essential to healthy computer use. Poor posture has been shown to increase fatigue levels and place unneeded strain on the back. Invest in a chair that adjusts to your height and provides adequate lumbar support. Place your feet on the floor or on a footrest, such as the 3M Adjustable Footrest, which will increase comfort by relieving stress on the legs, back and neck. If your job requires a lot of phone use, avoid cradling the phone between your ear and shoulder. Try using a speakerphone or headset to better prevent neck and shoulder strain.

Break it Up

Ergonomists have a saying, "The best posture is the next posture." Be sure to take breaks during the day to keep moving. Sitting or typing for a long period is not only uncomfortable, but increases the risk of serious health problems down the road. Use a sit-stand work surface, like the 3M Adjustable Keyboard Tray, to change your position while keying. Or just standing up, stretching or taking a walk will provide the rest that your hands and body need. You'll feel more comfortable and energized throughout a long day when you do.

PC arrangement

Make sure your computer is arranged correctly on the desk. Counter to common perception, computer monitors should be situated just below eye-level. This will help reduce backward head and neck tilt and straining associated with an incorrectly positioned monitor. Be careful not to place the monitor too low, which will also place pressure on the neck muscles. If you're working on a kitchen table or low desk, you may need to place your monitor on a monitor stand to raise it to the proper height. In addition to raising your monitor to the proper height, 3M's monitor stand even allows you to store papers and documents within it to help keep your desk clear of clutter.

Also vital is positioning the monitor at the proper viewing distance. The standard rule of thumb is that the monitor should be at least 20 inches (approximately arm's length) from you. Make sure you can clearly see the characters on your monitor. You may need to adjust your monitor brightness and contrast settings to display characters clearly.

Keep it in neutral

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, 64 percent of all workplace illnesses are disorders associated with repeated trauma, such as carpal tunnel syndrome. Treatment and surgery for carpal tunnel is painful, expensive and not always successful, so being aware of the risk is crucial. The key to healthy wrists is keeping them in a neutral position while typing or using a mouse. To see if your wrists are in neutral, check and make sure that your forearms, wrists and hands are in a straight line while you're typing. If not, use a wrist rest to support your wrists and help keep them straight.

Be a visionary

Working on a computer all day can quickly take a toll on your eyes. Check the lighting in your home or office to reduce glare on your computer screen and prevent vision problems. Use window coverings to diminish outside light and try turning off some of the overhead lights. Try using an anti-glare computer filter, like the 3M Circular Polarizing Filter, which allows for a clear, sharp image that is easy to read and kind to the eyes.

Position reference documents at the same height and distance as your computer monitor by using a 3M document holder that securely attaches to the side of the monitor. This will eliminate the need for your eyes to refocus each time you glance between the monitor and the reference paper, reducing eye -- and neck -- strain.

For more information on how to stay healthy at work, or additional ergonomics tips and guidelines, visit 3M Office Ergonomics at www.3m.com/ergonomics and click on the Self-Help site, or call 3M at (800)332-7483. — Courtesy of Article Resource Association, www.aracopy.com

How long-term care insurance can help ease the financial burden of nursing home care

The dream of a long life can become a nightmare if you end up in a nursing home, outlive your money, become a burden to your children and live your final years on public aid.

Recognizing both the fear and possibility of this outcome, a new growth sector in the insurance industry has come into its own -- long term care (LTC) insurance. Such policies contribute to the high costs of nursing home care and protect one's assets.

Long term care insurance has become a growth industry. A.M. Best reports that in 1996, the latest year where data is available, insurers sold 600,000 long term care policies, the most ever sold in a year. The Health Insurance Association of America added that premiums dropped 5 percent, which reflects cost savings created by higher volumes.

"The rationale for LTC is compelling, according to Murray Gordon, President of MAGA Limited, Deerfield, Ill., a firm specializing in LTC. He cites data from a variety of public and private sources that report:

- The chances of a house fire is one in 1,200.
- The chances of an auto accident liability are one in 240.
- The chances of incurring property loss or liability for bodily injury in the home are one in 88.
- The chances of incurring a major medical expense is one in 15.
- But, the chances of needing long-term health care are one in 2.5!

"Today, Americans over age 85 are the fastest growing segment of the aging population. As a result, those requiring long-term care are expected to increase dramatically over the next 25 years," Gordon continued.

Gordon founded MAGA Limited in 1975. The firm is endorsed by the Community Bankers Association of Illinois and the Illinois Association of School Administrators. MAGA and Life Services Network of Illinois co-sponsor the "Life-Net" long term care insurance information service offered to many retirement communities and nursing homes in Illinois.

Health Insurance Association of America statistics show that one out of every two women, age 85 and over, and one out of every three men, age 85 and over, will spend time in a nursing home. The Department of Health and Human Services has found that people over 65 face a 40 percent lifetime risk of entering a nursing home and about 10 percent will stay there five years or longer.

"Even if you don't go into a nursing home, you might require an assisted living facility or even home care," said Gordon. "Long term care insurance covers these situations as well."

The costs of staying in a nursing home range from $36,000 to $80,000 a year depending on where you live and the average national cost is more than $40,000 per year, according to Gordon.

LTC insurance has been available in some form or another for about 30 years, but in recent years the product has really come into its own. Both the Clinton Administration and the Republican Party's "Contract with America" have created major public awareness for long term health care.

To qualify for Medicaid, some middle-class elderly have attempted to transfer assets to others to become "artificially impoverished," according to Gordon. This option is risky today. Estate recovery is now mandatory -- although enforcement varies by state. What this means is that states may recover from the estates of beneficiaries any long term care benefits received.

In buying traditional LTC insurance, here are some important factors to consider: "Look at the strength of the issuer and buy from one of the top 10 marketers of LTC. It's important your carrier and agent are experienced in the field. We've seen LTC carriers come and go. You want to be sure that your carrier is in the LTC business when you need them."

"Try to select a policy that uses a 'pool of money' approach. Such policies integrate nursing home care with home care and can cover things like adult day care and other types of home services," he said.

In selecting daily benefits, Gordon recommends determining what to expect your own locale. "In the Chicago area, nursing home care ranges from $110 to $160 per day," he said. "Nationally, the average is $110 per day."

Duration of benefits are a function of how old you are when you establish your policy. "If you are under 65, you might want to have an unlimited plan," he said. "If you are over 75, 3 to 4 years may be adequate."

A way of reducing premiums 15-20 percent is to increase one's "elimination period" (deductible). "As with duration of benefit, when you're younger, you may opt for first-day benefits," Gordon said. "Older people may choose 90 or 100-day deductibles realizing that Medicare and Medicare supplemental insurance benefits might be applicable."

Gordon added that each individual has different needs and urges people to contact a LTC agent for further information.

Ingratiating feelings first can lead to poor behavior

Hi Dr. Singer,

I have a challenge with my 9-year-old son. He misbehaves a lot, and we try our best to correct him when necessary. The problem is that his misbehavior seems to be around angry feelings a lot and I don't want to cut off his feelings by punishing him. I want the behavior to be better, but I don't want him to think he cannot express his feelings. Consequently, we don't punish very often and his behavior is getting worse.

Should feelings come first or his responsibility to behave? If I require good behavior, will I be hurting him or making him think that his feelings aren't important? V.B.

Dear V.B.,

Feelings are important, and we do need to help our children learn to express them in a healthy way. I'm not sure that misbehaving is one of those ways. I respect your concern for not wanting to squelch your child's expression, however, I think you are falling prey to one of the most insidious forms of future killers for children. Your child should learn to express feelings, but appropriately. If a child learns to act out every time he feels frustrated or angry, he will continue to do that throughout life with everyone he meets.

No one will put up with that for long. Most likely, this is why you are seeing the bad behavior grow. He is not experiencing anything to stop the progression towards acting out. In other words, it is more profitable for him to act out than for him not to.

Additionally, do not confuse anger with frustration and intolerance. The way that you or I think of anger may not be the way your child feels it. Usually, the tantrums I have seen and have heard described are about the child not getting his way. They are basically a power play to get parents scared and to back down so ultimately the desired goal is reached by the child. This has absolutely nothing to do with the real emotion of anger.

Unfortunately, most parents do get scared and back down very quickly and the child learns that this is the way to get what he wants. From that point on, the tantrums grow bigger and bigger and bigger. When most parents think that anger is the issue for their child, most kids are really feeling frustration and intolerance. Imagine the message we give to them when we give in to their frustration and intolerance. We are telling them that it's o.k. to act that way. We are also giving them the clear message that everyone will be just as quick to back down as we were.

Let's talk about how to approach this thing from a logical and appropriate standpoint. My view and what I usually recommend to parents in my office is that behavior needs to be maintained first and then, after the child is calm, discussion can happen about feelings. That discussion should also help the child build skills for dealing with this type of thing the next time.

So, first whatever behavior program is in place needs to be used to get the behavior under control, regardless of the reason for it. After the behavior is in control, a discussion should happen between parent and child. The parent should reinforce and help the child understand that the goal was not attained by the tantrum. The discussion should be mostly the parent asking the child questions to bring him around to the points the parent wants to make. There is far more learning that goes on when the child has to think to answer questions than when you lecture him.

The next time the same situation comes up and your child begins to react the right way, you will want to congratulate your child on a good decision. If the child is not sure of what to do, you might want to help him to think of the two choices available to him at the time (i.e.: staying calm, getting good recognition and getting to go on with the rest of the day without a problem or the appropriate punishment for the wrong decision.) When he makes a good decision, let him know how proud you are. If he makes the bad decision, follow up consistently and appropriately.

By doing it this way, you are teaching him that he is allowed to feel any way he wants to about things, but he is not allowed to do anything he wants with those feelings. There is a big difference between squelching behavior and squelching feelings. This is called setting limits. Those limits will help his success level now and in his future and make his transitions in life much smoother.

I'll say one more thing here about therapy. If you son's anger is not related to not getting his way, you might want to consider counseling, however, I will say that having a counselor listen to your son talk about not getting his way might inflame the behavior to a worse level. If you see anyone, make it a child behavior specialist and someone who will see you at the same time so that you are directly involved in learning how to maintain this yourself at home.

Condell Medical Center and Sunset Foods Apple-A-Day Health series present: Functional Foods: Nourishing the Spirit of Health

If we are what we eat, what should we eat? What foods best nourish the body, soul and spirits?

How should diets change to fit physical conditions, age and lifestyles? Sunset Foods and Condell Medical Center in Libertyville are pooling resource of experts to present the latest theories on a new way of looking at the relationship between health and diet: "functional foods." The free program, entitled, "Functional Foods: Nourishing the Spirit of Health," will take place at Sunset Foods, 1451 West Peterson Rd. in Libertyville on April 13 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Craig Dean, MD, director of Emergency Medicine at Condell and a leading authority on the connection between herbs, supplements, exercise and longevity, will join registered and licensed dietitian Lisa Matthews, who will present the latest information on the healthy properties of foods such as soy, tofu, and vitamin rich vegetables. In addition, Tric Walker, exercise physiologist from Centre Club, Condell's affiliated fitness complex in Libertyville, will demonstrate the value of exercise in a balanced health regimen.

Lisa Matthews has over 10 years experience in the fields of wellness and weight management education. Currently, she is an instructor for Condell's "Health Achievers" adolescent weight management program and is a creative writer for the Medical Center.

While all foods can be part of a healthy diet, "functional foods" are defined as those that have positive health benefits beyond basic nutrition and also may have disease prevention or even curative properties. As a result, products are being created specifically to promote mental or physical well-being.

Researchers have begun to identify the exact links between specific foods and disease prevention. In response to this new information, food companies are developing products based upon their potential health benefits.

Dr. Dean and Ms. Matthews will present the latest information on functional foods and practical advice on how and when to include them in your diet. Demonstrations and samples will be included in the presentation.

For additional information on this and other free lectures to be presented by Condell and Sunset Foods, visit Sunset's web site: www.sunset-foods.com.

HOME & GARDEN

March 26, 1999

Lakeland Newspapers/B15

If you love to bring your garden indoors, love to make bouquets for every room, crave to have armloads of blooms, you are ready for a cutting garden.

What is a cutting garden? It is a garden grown simply to produce flowers for bouquets. Different from a display garden, which has to be meticulously maintained to make a show for as many months as possible, a cutting garden is a flower factory, designed for production and harvest. Whether you start with bulbs, seedlings, or seeds, the idea is to raise the biggest, prettiest blooms and then pick them at their pick to enjoy in a new way—from a different perspective.

Properly planned, a cutting garden can yield a supply of bouquets for all seasons. You can grow bulbs for early spring and a variety of perennials that will bloom from summer to fall. Many annuals bloom continuously from late spring to early fall, as long as you keep them picked—and that is the point.

A cutting garden does not have to be large. Even a bed five by 10 feet planted with bright annuals and a few long-blooming perennials will yield many bouquets.

Choose a spot for a cutting garden that gets at least six hours of unobstructed sun a day. Plant the flowers in rows or blocks to make the best use of space, and mulch around the bed to discourage weeds.

To grow a bumper crop of flowers, you want the best, most fertile soil possible. Loosen the soil to a depth of at least eight inches. Add compost, manure, or another fertilizer, mixing it well.

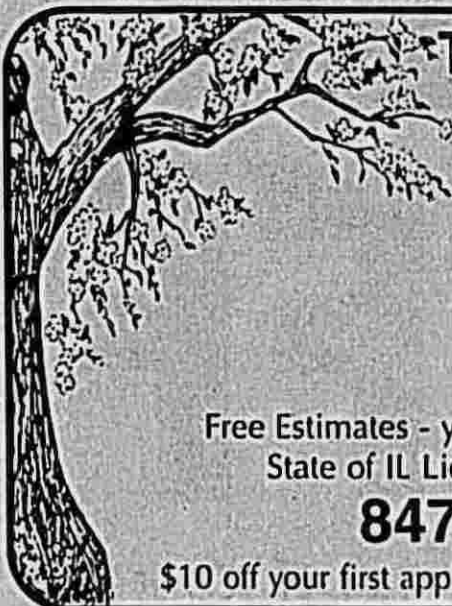

Choosing what to grow is the most fun. Consider the colors and types of flowers you love. Also consider what will grow best in our climate. Include a variety of flower forms, spiky, global, some open and branching, and a mixture of sizes and textures.

Good foliage is a plus, but it is easy to find in the yard or garden. Include flowers such as carnations, stock, baby's breath, bachelor's button, china aster and cosmos. Also include dahlia, lantana, larkspur, lavatera, nicotiana, phlox, salvia and snapdragons.

Until next time, peace.

CLC employees on picket line

Union maintenance workers picket to protest lack of contract

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
City Editor

Union workers holding signs like "CLC Staff Working Without A Contract" and "We Keep this Place Running" are trying to send a message by informational picketing at the College of Lake County.

Employees of the College of Lake County Staff Council, the union which represents about 40 custodians, HVAC mechanics and maintenance and grounds workers, have been picketing at the Grayslake campus for several days to protest the fact that they are working without a contract. The most recent picket was held Tuesday night prior to CLC's board meeting.

"We've been at this process for quite some time with the college and frankly we think a message needs to be sent out to a wider audience that we need a settlement with the college," said Jim Bron, field service director for the Lake County Federation of Teachers and a negotiator for the union. "We think that the process has gone on far too long."

Union employees have been working without a contract since July, when the previous contract expired. Contract talks have been stalled since January. Since that time, a federal mediator has been attempting to assist in negotiating a new contract, but those efforts have been unsuccessful.

In addition to the Tuesday night picket, an informational picket was

At large election bill appears 'dead'

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
City Editor

A legislative effort to change the way the Lake County Board chairman is elected appears to be dead in the water.

Legislation sponsored by State Sen. Terry Link, D-Vernon Hills, that would have provided for an at large election of chairman failed to make it out of the Illinois Senate's Local Government Committee last week.

"It's pretty well dead right now," said Link. He noted that the committee that heard the bill is not scheduled to meet again this session.

Link's legislation would have provided for at large elections in all counties with populations of more than 500,000, as of Jan. 1, 2002. Lake County is the only county in Illinois that does not have its chairman elected at large by the voters.

"We gave something a try and it just didn't make it. Maybe the timing wasn't right, but it doesn't mean at some time it might not be brought back again," said Link.

"I think it brought a lot of awareness to people," he added. "I think a lot of people didn't know how the County Board was structured. If nothing else, we educated a lot of people."

Link, who sponsored the legislation along with state senators Adeline Geo-Karis, R-Zion, and Bill Peterson, R-Prairie View, touted the bill as a good government step designed to give voters a greater say over who would represent them as chairman. Currently, the board chairman is chosen by a majority of the 24-member board.

Link admitted, however, that the plan failed to garner the widespread support he had hoped.

Several County Board members had been openly critical of the bill, particularly Larry Leafblad, R-Grayslake, who called it "meddling" in county business.

Leafblad thinks the legislation created unnecessary divisiveness when the newly reorganized board was just beginning its work.

"I wish it would never have come up," he said.

Environmental group pans state road report

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
City Editor

A new state report about traffic congestion problems in Lake County is getting a thumbs down from at least one environmental group.

"In general, our reaction to that report is it was much ado about nothing," said Mike Truppa, spokesman for the Environmental Law & Policy Center, a regional environmental group with headquarters in Chicago.

Truppa was referring to the Transportation System Performance Report for Lake County that was recently released by the Illinois Department of Transportation and Illinois State Toll Highway Authority. The report projects traffic congestion will dramatically increase in Lake County over the next 20 years and discussed some potential long-term transportation solutions to the problem.

"I don't know how much money or time they spent on that report, but in the end all they did is reiterate what residents of Lake County have been saying for more than a decade and that's that the roads are congested," Truppa said.

The state report discussed the need for significant improvements to the road system in order to address the county's projected population and employment trends. It discussed the proposed Route 53 tollway but indicated it is just one of the alternatives being considered.

Truppa, however, said his group believes the state toll authority has "an institutional bias" to building a new toll road in Lake County, specifically Route 53.

"The toll authority simply cannot be trusted to do an impartial study of alternatives to Route 53 because the toll authority does nothing else than build tollways," said Truppa.

Pete Harmet, deputy project manager for the Lake County Transportation Project, which produced the state's report, indicated that both IDOT and the tollway authority are studying how best to solve the county's growing traffic congestion problems. Route 53 is just one of the alternatives that has been discussed, he said.

"IDOT and the toll authority are responsible for making decisions about highways. We will make decisions with as much information and input from the public as possible," he said.

Truppa said many environmental groups in Lake County have formed a coalition called Citizens Organized for Sound Transportation, which tries to present alternatives to address the county's transportation needs.

Truppa said everyone agrees traffic congestion is a problem but building Route 53 is not the solution.

"I don't think anyone would quibble that traffic congestion will increase in Lake County unless improvements are made to the transportation system," said Truppa. "The danger is the toll authority will manipulate their studies to mislead people into thinking that Route 53 is necessary."

All the time that IDOT and the toll authority have spent studying what to do about roads could have instead been used for making local road improvements, he said.

"All the research done to date shows the most efficient and most cost-effective solution to traffic congestion is to improve the county's existing roads," Truppa said.

In 1997, Truppa said the Environmental Law & Policy Center, in conjunction with other environmental groups, released its own study entitled "Crossroads: Smart Transportation Options for Lake County."

That study indicated that many of traffic congestion problems could be alleviated if the state would simply make needed local road improvements. Making those improvements would also be less costly than building the Route 53 tollway, which has an estimated $1 billion price tag.

The study also indicated that if Route 53 were built, it would attract an additional 60,000 new residents to Lake County. That is over and above the estimated 250,000 people that are expected to move to the county by the year 2020.

"Just the addition of the toll road causes the population to increase by another 60,000 people," Truppa said.

Harmet disputes Truppa's estimates that construction of Route 53 would bring another 60,000 residents to Lake County.

"The notion that Route 53 would cause 60,000 more people to come to Lake County is false," he said. "A new highway could account for less than half of that over a period of 20 years."

Stability marks CLC board

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
City Editor

Although several major events have faced the College of Lake County in recent months, the election for the college's Board of Trustees has gone relatively unnoticed.

The college has been in the news a lot recently with the possibility of a University Center locating at CLC and the recent concerns over the use of hidden cameras at the college.

But stability is something that has marked the board in recent years, and this election year is no exception. Two long-time board incumbents, Millicent Berliant and Nancy Block, are both running unopposed for six year terms on April 13 ballot.

Both Berliant and Block believe they have made contributions to the college's future and want to continue to be part of the college's future going into the 21st century.

Millicent Berliant

A long-time resident of Lake County, Berliant has lived in Deerfield for the past 40 years.

Berliant has been active in many community groups and organizations in Lake County over the years. She was the founding member of the Deerfield League of Women Voters and served on an elementary school board for about six years. She was elected to the Lake County Board in 1972, where she served for four years.

Berliant was first elected to the College of Lake County's Board of Trustees 18 years ago in 1981.

Despite the dramatic growth of Lake County over that period, Berliant believes the college has been able to keep up to date in terms of its buildings, new programs and technology. Construction of the Performing Arts building a couple years ago is one of the major achievements of the college's building program, she said.

"I think we've kept up well with the increasing population of Lake County and that's something we need to continue to do," she said.

One of the major challenges facing the college is identifying funding sources for various college programs, either through taxes, grants or other funding sources.

"No one should have to go without the education they need because we don't have sufficient funds," she said.

Berliant said the college board has tried to move "carefully and thoughtfully" in addressing the issue of hidden cameras.

The board has reviewed the college policies over the use of hidden cameras and is conducting an internal investigation into the matter.

"If we made an error, I hope we can rectify it," she said.

On the issue of a proposed University Center, Berliant said the college will be an active participant in the development of the University Center, whether it's located at CLC or not.

Nancy Block

Like Berliant, Block is a long-time resident of Lake County, having lived in Prairie View for more than 30 years. She has also been active in many community organizations and activities over the years, including serving for 25 years on the board of the Vernon Area Public Library. She worked for 12 years as a legislative assistant in the 30th District, before retiring in 1994.

Interestingly, Block joined the College of Lake County board the same year Berliant did. Working as a team, she believes the board has accomplished a lot in that time.

"We're a very compatible board, even though we sometimes have views and different ways of looking at things," she said.

Block believes some of the board's major accomplishments have been in the building and capital improvement areas. A few of the major capital projects have included the building of the Performing Arts building, a new science wing and the addition of the college's downtown facility in Waukegan.

"I was especially pleased with the Performing Arts Center because there really isn't anything like it in Lake County," she said.

Block said the board has been successful because it has tried to determine what people in the communities want the college to be.

"We have really polled the communities and studied the statistics of Lake County. I think it's a real commitment to meet community needs, not decide what the community needs are."

Block thinks her best qualities as a board member is that she is a "good listener" who tries to look at the "broad picture" in terms of what's best for the college.

One of the major things Block would like to see accomplished is to extend the educational opportunities offered by the college and be able to offer junior and senior level classes in the county.

She believes the college would be best site for the proposed University Center of Lake County because the college would be able to utilize its existing resources to provide higher education more efficiently.

"Wherever it (the University Center) goes, we'll support it because it's something the county wants and needs," she said.

PICKET: Maintenance workers protest to gain new contract

held last Thursday during CLC's "College Night." Between 30 and 40 people, including union employees and some faculty members, participated in that picket.

"We're trying to draw attention to our situation. We just want a fair contract and the benefits we've had over the past years," said Erik Solomon of Gurnee, president of the union.

Solomon said salaries for the employees are not keeping pace with the cost of living in Lake County, which is one of the most expensive areas to live in the state. He said the workers are among the lowest paid at the college.

"Our salaries haven't been moving up equitably," he said.

But salaries aren't the major reason for the picket, according to Jim Marison of Round Lake Beach, a heating and air conditioning worker.

He said his main concern is that the college's negotiating team has insisted on reducing health insurance benefits for the employees, while insurance coverage remains unchanged for administrators and other staff.

"That really upsets me," said Marison.

Pete Krupsak, vice president of academic affairs at CLC who serves on the college's negotiating team, said the statements that the college wants to reduce insurance benefits for the employees are "absolutely incorrect." In fact, he said offers that have been made by the college to date are to "increase the amount of contributions to benefits."

Krupsak said the negotiating teams for both the college and the union were scheduled to meet again Thursday, and he is hopeful an agreement can be worked out soon.

"The college administration and the union have been negotiating in good faith for months. Every time we meet, we move closer to a closure," he said.

REPORT: Environmental group scoffs at road studies, report

& Law Center's study ignores is that more than a half a million new residents will be moving to Lake County over the next two decades—whether Route 53 is built or not, according to Harmet.

Harmet said the state's Transportation System Performance Report found that even if 74 miles of proposed improvements are made to local roads over the next 20 years, traffic congestion in the county will double.

"Clearly, development is way ahead of the transportation system and the issue is what are the ways to address the congestion crunch that's here today and that's coming regardless," he said.

Follow procedure

Regarding the Party Line column with Wadsworth trustee, Ron Sheptak's letter. He said fellow trustee, Evelyn Hoselton could have asked questions. She did and was promptly removed from all committees. She asked the state attorney for advice because the board president, Don Craft and John Mullen, attorney, who sits in on every board meeting were not following proper full session procedure and the open meetings act. None of the current trustees up for re-election deserve to be elected again because of the blatant refusal to follow Illinois State law.

No Cub Foods

I agree that we shouldn't be giving a tax break to Cub Foods to open a new store. It doesn't make any sense to give Cub Foods a tax break to open a store when we have four grocery stores that DO pay taxes. Bringing in another store would take away business from the existing ones. If one of those stores would have to close because of the competition, then we would still be out of more tax revenue.

Round Lake Beach

'Roads are for cars'

There are joggers, runners and also mothers pushing baby buggies down the street. Where am I supposed to drive my car, on the sidewalk? Cars are being parked in handicapped parking spaces without handicap permits. Many drivers do not use their turning signals, while other drivers don't know when to turn on their headlights, including when they are using their windshield wipers. Many drivers speed excessively down Hook Road and Millburn road even though the speed limit is 25 mph. Why not pick up these offenders and make our roads safer. The Round Lake Beach police are on the roads at 4 a.m., ticketing vehicles that might be overhanging over the sidewalk. Isn't it great that our tax dollars are used to make our driveways safer, while we are sleeping?

Round Lake Beach

Keep park commissioners

Having lived in this community for 19 years and have never seen such belligerent, disgusting and malicious misinformation. We citizens should be pleased at how efficiently and competently the Park District is now run and how financially accountable they have become since their election two years ago. Lets keep these present commissioners in office and add Linda Glynn from Hainesville. Since this community is part of our park district, I feel they should be represented on the park board. Let's not let Ross Goodrich back on again—he obviously has nothing to contribute but negativism. Let's keep things positive.

Grayslake

Vote YES handicap Rec program

There have been a lot of comments in the papers about the validity of the referendum to provide recreational programs for the handicapped. I, for one, am very much in favor of this referendum. It is long overdue. Children and adults with special needs should have the same access to programs and parks that we do. Think of the children that are able to go to the park, swing on the swings, slide on the slides, etc. Now, put that child in a wheelchair or put braces on their legs and see if they have the same accessibility. Also, think if your child was developmentally disabled—and couldn't take advantage of the programs that are offered in the park district's brochure. What a summer to look forward to. This referendum request will only add approximately $20 to your tax bill per year, the price of a pizza for a night's meal. If you have any questions about this, call the park district and ask them to explain it, they have the facts on it. Let's not make these children and adults wait any longer for the same privileges that we take for granted. Vote YES on April 13. To provide recreational programs for the handicapped.

'Davisville'

You and your board have the backing of the people and business in Round Lake Beach. You have a great police department, and Police Chief Ed Sindles. The town is together, and it's working. Want to break it up? Want to call it "Davisville?" Remember Schrimpf and "Shrimpfville?" The town came to a halt with him. Where are they now?—Out. Come on now—open your eyes, ears and mind. Round Lake Beach is finally working. Your "new" slate won't get our vote.

Round Lake Beach

Vote NO-referendum

Vote NO for the school board referendum. The residents of Fox Lake should not be held accountable for the village's poor planning. Taxes are high enough. Vote NO.

Fox Lake

Lower taxes

Did it ever occur to the village of Grayslake, to take the landfill money and lower our taxes? Or give most of it to the schools who desperately need it? When the landfill people approached the village with this so-called gift, a few years ago, the village would not let any other taxing body make claims to the money. It ends up that other taxing bodies must beg for a nickel, given only with village approval. Meanwhile the village spends the money to build bike paths or digging sewers, something that should wait until our schools are built. I think we need to add a few new people to the village board

Take pay cut

I'm urging residents of Round Lake Beach to vote No to the school board referendum. The board and superintendent lead us to believe with half truths that it will benefit our schools. It's time we make a statement and let them know we want to see results from all the money we already agreed to pay. If they need more money to better serve our schools, have the superintendent and staff take pay cuts. We don't need another referendum. We need someone who can control our funds to better serve the students. Vote NO.

Round Lake Beach

Drop the bid

I am appalled at the Round Lake

School District. They want to change the Marriott Food Service for the schools for a bid of $50,000 more. The profit these people get from Marriott is unbelievable. For five years they have profited over a $1 million dollars. They continue to give away to these kids, bicycles or free lunch programs. We should stand up and tell the school board to drop the bid.

Round Lake Beach

Speak out

I am calling about the referendum Round Lake School District wants to pass. At the same time the Round Lake School District is about to change the food service. The food service they are going with is Chartwells which will be $50,000 higher per year. I am wondering how we are going to be able to pay for our kid's lunches this year. If we all speak out on this maybe we can change it.

Round Lake Beach

Bad taste

It was in extremely bad taste for the school board to make a bid for another referendum, 15 minutes before the third grade program on March 16. They trapped parents who came to hear their children perform, into listening. When questions were asked, they actually seemed surprised when every question was from an angry parent. Who can blame them? Their homes will actually be worth less when they want to sell. As a realtor, I see clients looking and moving to other communities, because of our high taxes. Our supply is much higher than our decreasing demand or in the value of our homes. I would agree with the angry parent who said, "Maybe we should stop the building." I also think it's a shame that the people who have been born and raised here, can no longer afford to live here because of the taxes.

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Big Hollow Road project starts

Ingleside—The Illinois Department of Transportation has started its project of widening Big Hollow Road from two lanes to three from Route 12 to the McHenry County line.

Work was scheduled to begin March 23, and by May 1, only one lane is expected to be open for alternating traffic, until the project is completed in mid-November. Lake County Board Member Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside) said 1.5 miles of roadway would be resurfaced.

Workers will also complete curb and gutter improvements and construct a new bridge at Redhead Lake.

Business park annexed

Wauconda—The developer of the village's industrial park had the property he plans to build the Wauconda Business Park on annexed into the village last week.

Board members voted to annex the 12.98 acre parcel located at the southeast corner of Bonner and Old Rand roads, and rezone it as LI (Light Industrial), at their March 16 meeting.

The preliminary plat for the project has yet to be approved, pending recommendation by Devery Engineering Inc., the village's engineers. Drawings show the park having three lots.

Federal court sides with village

Fox Lake—The village won a federal lawsuit against PrimeCo Personal Communications which wanted to force the village to allow for the construction of a 150-foot monopole at 855 S. Route 12.

Village officials spent two years fighting the company's requests, with officials saying they were not afraid of the outcome.

"This is a precedent setting case in the state of Illinois," said Trustee J. Kevin Hunter. "It says from day one, look for an alternative site."

A federal judge ruled March 15 that the village had sufficient reasons for denying a special use permit request from the company. PrimeCo officials said the company has 30 days from the ruling to decide its next option.

Great America gets detectors

Gurnee—Six Flags Great America is in the process of installing metal detectors behind the front gate turnstiles, said Connie Costello, public relations representative. The decision was made late last week as part of a company-wide initiative to promote safety in the metropolitan-area amusement parks of the parent company, Premier Parks.

"Premier is very, very security conscious," said Costello. "We're one of the last Six Flags parks to get [the metal detectors]."

Costello said during the park's 23-year existence, there has been only one incident involving a weapon. In 1994, a guest was stabbed by another guest while inside the park.

The park is scheduled to open on April 25.

Arrested for attempted murder

Mundelein—A 31-year-old Mundelein man was arrested March 20 for the attempted murder of his girlfriend, police said.

Police arrested Miguel Angel Gomez-Sagu, of the 1400 block of Churchill Place, following an altercation with his girlfriend in which he slapped the woman several times and threatened to kill her, police said.

Gomez-Sagu then took out a small silver semi-automatic handgun and pointed it at the woman, police said. When he pulled the trigger, the gun misfired.

Gomez-Sagu was charged with one count of attempted first degree murder, and was given a $500,000 bond.

Bunny hosts egg hunt Saturday

Lake Villa—Village officials have confirmed that the Easter Bunny will host an Easter Egg Hunt at Lehmann Park on Saturday, March 27 starting at 11 a.m.

Community residents are welcome to attend, and children 3 years old to 8 years old can participate in the hunt for candy-filled eggs.

Parents who bring cameras may also take pictures of their children with the Easter Bunny.

The rain date is Sunday, March 28 at 2 p.m.

Under control

Mike Dressler, Van Patton Woods Forest Preserve site manager, controls a burn of non-native plants Monday to make room for native grass to grow in Rollins Savanna.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

"Everyone is asked to bring a non-perishable food item we can bring to the food pantry," Village Clerk Alyce Brownlee said. Village employees will take donated food to the Lake Villa Food Pantry.

The Lake Villa Easter Egg hunt is set out by village employees in three separate areas for three age groups. They are: 3 and 4 year olds; 5 and 6 year olds; and, 7 and 8 year old children.

Earth-Arbor Day planned

Lindenhurst—Lindenhurst Park District and village officials will sponsor the annual Earth-Arbor Day festivities on Saturday, April 17, 1999 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the heated Public Works Garage at 2301 East Sand Lake Road.

Educational exhibits will be on display from noon to 2 p.m. There will be many prizes awarded to participants.

Starting at noon, participants may examine and hear wildlife exhibits and other displays by village and University of Illinois agencies.

The displays will include a bear cub and cougar by Wildlife Inc. Betsy Mass will discuss captive care for reptiles. She will have rare snakes and lizards for display.

Returning again this year are Jeff and Jan Smith. They will have with them an Arctic fox and "Nahani," an Alaskan silver wolf.

Representatives of Greyhounds of America will be present to discuss and describe their support and adoption program for dogs who no longer run in races.

Families that attend the educational exhibits will also be able to visit a coyote, raccoon, and "Odin," a British Colombian black wolf. They will be on display with the owners of Big Run Wolf Ranch.

South campus gets a name

Vernon Hills—The new high school campus in Libertyville/Vernon Hills District 128 will no longer be referred to as the "south campus." It now has an identity all its own.

Thanks to the town it is located in and the work of a high school task force, the school will be called Vernon Hills High School.

The District 128 school board voted March 22 in favor of the name, which beat out Libertyville South, the second most popular choice.

Centennial High and George Bush High were other names suggested for the campus, but in the end the hometown name won out.

Now that the school has an identity, a student task force consisting of seventh, eighth, and ninth grade students will work on ideas for colors and a mascot for the new high school.

Trustee accused of ethics violation

Libertyville—A letter written by a Cook Memorial Library Board trustee has caught the attention of fellow board members who claim the letter is unethical.

The letter, written by Library Trustee Greg Mayworm, endorsed the candidacy of the slate of three library board challengers and also voiced opposition to the upcoming library referendum.

Cook Memorial Library Board President Joe Bean said the letter was in violation of an adopted statement of ethics Mayworm and the other board members voted for which stated that the trustees would not endorse any special interest or partisan political groups.

Mayworm said the letter is not a conflict of interest.

"I don't think I've done anything unethical," he said.

Symposium of conservation groups

Grayslake—Ten area conservation organizations will join together at a public symposium April 16 at Byron Colby Barn in Prairie Crossing to pay tribute to one of the fathers of conservation, Aldo Leopold, author of "A Sand County Almanac."

All proceeds from the event will go to the Aldo Leopold Foundation to catalog and safeguard all of Leopold's writings, and create a research center for ecological study with library and archive.

The symposium will be held as part of the afternoon celebration and conference from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at a cost of $25 per person.

There will also be a reception and dinner from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at a cost of $100 per person.

For reservations or information call 548-4062.

Hydrant pond causes controversy

Wadsworth—A proposed man-made pond, to be used as a source of water for a fire hydrant, has raised some questions.

The village recently approved $7,000 for engineering to turn a wetland on the east side of Northwestern Avenue into a pond for the purposes of adding a water supply in that section of the village.

Jerome Santoro, 38849 N. Northwestern, the owner of the property directly adjacent to the wetland, is opposing the creation of the pond, and is looking into the possibility of a lawsuit if the village proceeds with the development.

Santoro said what the village is proposing is essentially an eight-foot-deep ditch which poses a risk to his two small children.

Village President Don Craft said the village intends to go forward with the project, because the hydrant will service 50 to 75 homes in that area and will benefit many lives.

Business expo offers the world

Antioch—Chamber of Commerce officials are offering $1,000 travel vouchers to two lucky winners who travel through their annual trade and exposition show this weekend.

There will be a winner on Saturday and a winner on Sunday.

"This is our way to reward foot traffic through the show," said President Barbara Porch, of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry. "You have to visit 25 booths in the show."

"We're currently at 50 exhibitors and anticipating a few more," said Susie Kolle, chamber marketing representative.

Local and area businesses will exhibit their merchandise and services in the north gymnasium at Antioch Community High School. The show is from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

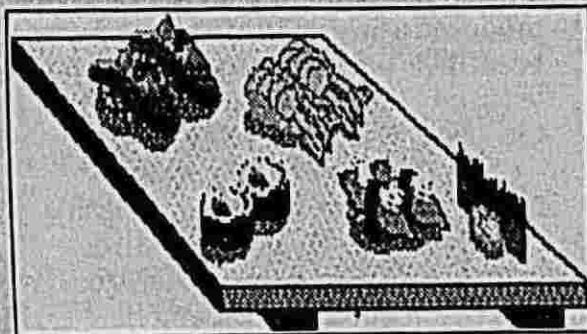

Parking is available behind the high school on its east side near the tennis courts.

Positive intervention needs to start early

Early childhood programs to foster learning and enhance self-esteem have long term beneficial impacts for communities and for high school students.

Coaching parents and teachers on ways to encourage young children to be involved at school and to be sociable can have long term impacts on student behavior and academic achievement.

These results were reported in the March 15, 1999 issue of Archives of Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine. A 12 year study of students from high crime neighborhoods in Seattle, Wash., was subsequently followed by a check of study results six years later. Researchers found that intervention programs done with students in the primary grades can last through their high school years.

High school students involved in an elementary education intervention program were 19 percent less likely to have committed violent acts, 38 percent less likely to be heavy drinkers, 13 percent less likely to engage in sexual intercourse, 19 percent less likely to have multiple sexual partners, and 35 percent less likely to have caused a pregnancy or to have become pregnant.

For adolescents in today's world, these are now dangerous or unhealthy activities.

The intervention programs, however, did not affect student experimentation with cigarettes and drugs.

The elementary school level intervention program was simple and something a community can do. It involved people already involved with children. There were strong long-term benefits.

The intervention program taught teachers to encourage cooperative learning among students and to reward group achievement. The goal was to have children commit themselves to the school, to give value to learning, and to become emotionally attached to school, teachers, and classmates. This provided the motivation to live positively and responsibly.

Children were taught how to solve problems between themselves and others, how to take turns, and how to talk positively to themselves. In the sixth grade, students were taught "refusal skills"—how to say no but to keep friends.

Early intervention programs that educators are building into the school curriculum are filled with long term student and community benefit. These benefits also provide cost savings to the community with reductions in crime.

Early intervention helps the entire community.

Making the case for rescue service

Ever so slowly, the wheels of government are grinding for establishment of a new Coast Guard helicopter search and rescue unit designed to serve southern Lake Michigan. Congressman John Porter (R-10th) is pushing for consideration of Waukegan Regional Airport as a possible site.

With the closure of Glenview Naval Air Station in 1996, the Coast Guard moved the air rescue unit across the lake to Muskegon. Considering response time, the Coast Guard presence on the western shoreline is basically token. Along with its central location, Waukegan is highly regarded because the airport is equipped with an FAA operated control tower, after-hours security, instrument landing capabilities, availability of standby firefighters and an existing government fuel service agreement.

It's not too far-fetched to view the proposed search and rescue unit as available for missions on the Chain O'Lakes. Combined boating activity on both sides of Lake County make the area one of the boating hotbeds of the nation, well deserving of Coast Guard consideration and service.

Cody is a bright star

Sometimes the shortest candles burn the brightest.
That was the case in the life of young Cody Sturges.

The Algonquin resident, whose father is president of Fox Lake's Second Federal Savings and Loan, lost his battle with neuroblastoma, a rare form of cancer, last weekend.

Cody touched the lives of each person he met.

He had a winning smile and a spirit that would not quit.

Cody was a fighter.

It was a role he knew well.

He had fought the disease daily since the tender age of three, far longer than doctors ever predicted.

He brought more joy to his family in friends during his short life, than many bring in a lifetime.

For us, Cody will always be a bright star.

VIEWPOINT

No-respect basketball team county's greatest

Talk about stealth! Not since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor has an event startled the local populace like Warren High School's second place finish in the 1999 Illinois boys' state basketball championship.

Blue Devil mania swept Lake County late, rolling westward across Rte. 45 like lake effect snow Saturday morning when the realization sunk in that a county team was playing in the quarter finals. By the dinner hour, sports bystanders and casual fans alike were buzzing about a Lake County team battling for the state title after eliminating Schaumburg.

Like the '99 Warren High team itself, Blue Devil faithful pursued the impossible quest in virtual anonymity. Sports writers made much of the Rodney Dangerfield-type team that won "no respect" even as it kept winning.

Only rock-ribbed Devil worshippers around Gurnee thought Coach Chuck Ramsey and his unheralded 27-5 team would make a showing Downstate. The final game squad fooled everyone.

Drained physically and emotionally after losing the title match to St. Joseph Saturday night, Junior Jourdain Milot encapsulated the aspirations of his teammates. "We wanted to be the best team to ever play at Warren. I think we've shown that we are the best team that's ever played at Warren." No question about that, Jourdain.

The 1998-99 Blue Devils could well be the best team to ever represent Lake County in the boys' tournament. Libertyville's final four team of 1994 still is fresh in the memory of local basketball followers. Antioch had an Elite Eight team two decades ago. Carmel's run of outstanding teams in the early 80's produced a Sweet Sixteen team. For basketball "ancients," the great prep teams at Zion, Waukegan and North Chicago still are talked about fondly.

Now the defensive magicians from Warren have won their place in Lake County and Illinois basketball lore. The Blue Devils won't have to worry about no respect anymore. Ever.

ty trade fair last weekend in Round Lake, County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake) said he was overwhelmed by the outpouring of opposition to Lake County's current pace of growth.

Estimating that he talked to nearly 2,000 persons one-on-one, Leafblad said residents are frightened and sick-at-heart. "They passionately want a stop put to uncontrolled growth," reported Leafblad. Moved by the Forest Preserve plan up for a vote April 13 to take land out of the path of growth, one man gave Leafblad a check for $15 made out to the county. "Stop the madness," the donor said. Leafblad forked over personally the $250 cost of the booth. And it's not even an election year!

Community builder

Tucked away in the obituary column last week was the death of John T. Rule, who died at age 92 in Texas.

At one time, Rule, a native of Kansas, was one of Lake County's biggest home builders. His compact and reasonably priced ranch styles in Wildwood and Fox Lake Hills after World War II became homes for returning war veterans and their families.

Rule was among a quartet of builders nearly 50 years ago who were looked upon as saviors by young families hungry for their own home and a "place in the country." Other developers who helped change the face of Lake County at that time included Art Seekatz, building in the Round Lake area and Lake Villa; Mort Engle, who developed Lindenhurst and Grayslake Manor; and Harold Dato, whose construction company built hundreds of homes in Wauconda.

The four builders shared a common characteristic. Besides constructing homes they also were building communities. In today's corporate world, the builders tend to be shadowy figures no one knows—or understands.

Condolences

Because of his valiant fight against cancer since infancy, Cody Sturges probably was the best known little boy in Lake County.

Cody was the recipient of countless blood drives and fund raisers. His short life stands as an inspiration. Now his fight is over, but his memory will be a shining light what life means.

Library board race offers real candidates

Doug Hansmann, Cindy Killian, and Mike Kollman, candidates for the Cook Memorial Library Board, are committed to being honest with the voters. In light of that, I feel there is an issue that has been deliberately misrepresented by board president

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Garrett: Making waves.

Niemi: Seeking kitchen secrets

Amrich: Name means something

Garrett charging forward

Republican leaders are getting a bit edgy over the way freshman State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) is taking a leadership role solving problems associated with clogged Lake County highways. Garrett already has brought together municipal leaders several times and has another meeting scheduled in Waukegan in April. Garrett is a member of the House transportation committee. What rankles GOP chiefs is Garrett's assertion that Lake County is "under-represented" on highway matters.

Old recipes sought

Grant Township Assessor Betty Niemi is looking for 150-year-old recipes to plan food preparations for the township's 150th anniversary celebration next year. Celebrants will be encouraged to wear period costumes while enjoying refreshments popular in 1850. Niemi is chairperson of the celebration.

Caucus under fire

Predictions are that Lake Forest politics will never be the same after the April 13 election where the time-honored caucus system is being challenged by an opposition slate headed by Michael Burns for mayor.

Burns, age 43, a real estate broker, says it's time to end closed government in Lake Forest where candidates for public office are picked at an open citizens caucus.

Howard J. Kerr, age 63, caucus mayoral candidate, says the nominating system has stood the test of time. The winning mayoral candidate will succeed Mayor Cornelius B. Waud, who is completing a two-year term.

Busy bill work

Today, Timothy H. Osmond (R-Dist. 62) completes three weeks of voting on approximately 1,500 bills submitted by Illinois House members. There were 2,848 bills introduced so far in this session. To keep track of the bills and their status within the legislative process, members have notebook computers to provide access to all the information they need to vote.

"It's really an amazing process," he said.

The computers replace three and four foot high stacks of paper with which legislators once had to contend. On each bill, Osmond can track the legislation, amendments, the status of bills, the analysis of the bill (including the budget impact, if available), as well as any notes he has entered regarding his position on the bills.

Votes start at 10 a.m. and end at 8 p.m. every day.

Mayor's backing

It may seem strange, but it is true. All four candidates running for the three Island Lake Trustee spots claim endorsements from Mayor Charles Amrich.

Incumbent Trustee Fred Bigham has already claimed Amrich's endorsement last week. This week, the People's Choice Party candidates—Greg Guldo, Tom Martin and Tom Hyde, have announced Amrich endorses them for Island Lake Trustee.

"It is a shame we do not have four seats," Amrich said. "They are all good people, all qualified. Who ever gets in, the village cannot lose."

Other endorsing the People's Choice Party are Island Lake Clerk Deborah Herrmann, and Island Lake Trustees Louis Sharp and Steve Stiller.

Trashy tales from the White House

Our nation's literary legacy is brilliant and bountiful. The billions of books Americans have savored have included treasures from the likes of Mark Twain, Carl Sandburg, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Ernest Hemingway, James Michener, Ayn Rand, John Updike, Larry McMurtry, etc.

And now we can add to that lustrous lineup Monica Lewinsky and George Stephanopoulos. Can you stand it? Some people will do anything for a million or three.

"Monica's Story" and Stephanopoulos' "All Too Human" enjoyed brief best-seller status, although that already may be dwindling.

I saved $50 by not buying either of those "kiss-and-tell tomes" about their relationships with President Clinton, but I have read enough reviews to realize they are the literary equivalent of television's "Jerry Springer Show."

Once again, everyone's an author, whether or not he or she can write. This happened five years ago when figure skater Tonya Harding's husband and hoodlum friends whacked the knee of her rival, Nancy Kerrigan. Suddenly, figure skating became a voyeuristic sport and hack writers quickly cranked out books to capitalize on the scandal:

"Dreams of Gold: The Nancy Kerrigan Story."

"The Kerrigan Courage: Nancy's Story."

"Thin Ice: The Complete, Uncensored Story of Tonya Harding, America's Bad Girl of Ice Skating."

More recently, the O.J. Simpson murder trial turned prosecutors Marcia Clark and Christopher Darden into instant authors. Clark has become a television personality and Darden has written another book, this time a fiction piece with the help of mystery writer Dick Lochte.

Some of us long have been threatening to write a book but as George Orwell warned: "It is a long, horrible, exhausting struggle, like a long bout of some painful illness."

And as Dan Jenkins said, "Do you know how hard it is to TYPE a book, not to mention WRITE a book?"

The giggling, simpering Lewin-

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

sky needed a lot of help to write "Monica's Story," and it came from Andrew Morton, the British hired gun who also wrote, "Diana: Her True Story."

"Monica's Story" is padded between the covers with such froth as: "Monica stopped off at the Starbucks coffee shop for her usual brew, a large latte, skimmed, with sweetener and a shake of chocolate and cinnamon."

Monica also gets even with her "treacherous friend," Linda Tripp, remarking on "her nasal New Jersey drawl and lumpy figure" and labeling her "a latter-day Judas."

One critic suggested the world already has grown weary of Lewinsky, "a shameless hussy, a trollop, a strumpet—or, in less charmingly archaic words—a whore."

Another critic was similarly unimpressed with former Clinton adviser Stephanopoulos trashing his boss after leaving the White House.

"Few people in their late 30s have lived a life worth a memoir, and his certainly is not among them," wrote Michael Tackett from Washington. "But for about 2.7 million reasons he thought it appropriate to write a spin-and-tell book that makes his former boss, the president, look bad... Clinton at his cold-blooded worst, lying with true conviction."

As the saying goes, the trouble with these books are the covers are too far apart.

Letters to the editor are welcome.

They should be on topics of general interest, approximately 250 words or less. All letters must be signed, and contain a home address and telephone number. The editor reserves the right to condense all letters.

Hansmann, Killian, and Kollman have followed the library board closely for years and are independent candidates, representing their own views, and running on their own initiative. As one of their key goals, they are interested in getting more community input and involvement in library issues. They are happy to listen to anyone in our library community, including Mr. Martin, who may have ideas about how to improve the library.

In point of fact, Mr. Martin has expressed opposition to a branch library and has supported splitting the library district. Hansmann, Killian and Kollman support neither of these positions.

Hansmann, Killian, and Kollman oppose the current board's policies and practices. The fact that Mr. Martin also opposes those policies is just an indication of how broadly unpopular those positions are.

Vote for Forest Preserve

The League of Women Voters—Lake County endorses the Lake County Forest Preserve Referendum and urges voters to punch 144 on April 13. Passage of the referendum will help balance open space with development. Timing is critical. With current low interest rates, now is the best time to secure funding. Also, land can be purchased before it becomes too expensive.

Open space is important to the quality of life in Lake County. Forest Preserves provide outdoor recreation and education, flood control and help clean the air and water. Additional open space will help mitigate the growth in traffic and congestion. Please vote yes for the Forest Preserve Referendum and help maintain the character of Lake County at an affordable price.

A 'retail' freight train

Gurnee's Board of Trustees has ridden an out of control "retail" freight train for more than a decade.

Traveling at unmanageable speeds, the board has gobbled up hundreds of acres of vacant land, churning out car dealerships, grocery stores and soon to be seen water parks, conference centers and hotels. They have trampled over the quality of our neighborhood life, turned traffic into a nightmare and passed out tax rebates like candy on Halloween.

On Election Day, April 13, we have the opportunity to vote for change. We can vote for the three candidates that oppose inappropriate retail growth in Gurnee. We can vote for candidates that question the fiscal practices and behavior of the board. We can vote for Don Rudny, Kristina Kovarik and Ray Damijonaitis.

OK Gurnee, it is up to us. We have to get out and vote. We have to vote for change. I am going to vote for Ray Damijonaitis, Kristina Kovarik and don Rudny. Please join me.

Keep tollway funded by tolls

It is time for Illinois taxpayers to stop funding the purchase of land for the construction and extension of tollroads. Currently, the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) transfers land free of charge to the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority (ISTHA)—land that has been purchased at taxpayer expense.

In Lake county alone, the State has purchased over $100 million worth of land for Tollway projects instead of revitalizing its own roadway system. That $100 million could have been used to fund arterial improvements to heavily congested roads such as Routes 21, 22, 41, 45, 60, 83, 59, 120, 137 and 176.

HB2800, sponsored by Lauren Beth Gash (D-Deerfield) addresses this inequity and requires the toll authority to reimburse the IDOT for land that is used to build tollroads. Such action would also keep the toll authority "tollpayer funded," as it was intended.

Lake County residents should contact their State representative in support of HB2800, requiring the Tollway to "pay its own way."

At the Front of the Pack: The Art of Leadership

If you think you're a born leader, but have no followers, you may just be taking a walk - a paraphrased proverb

Many people talk about leadership; few really know what it is. Many set out to become great leaders, but few accomplish the task. For those of you who would like to develop your leadership skills, I offer these words of wisdom. I gleaned them from some great resources, which I list at the end of this column.

Leadership Characteristics

• Leaders Are Laborers Worthy of Their Hire. A leader is one who "shows the way", "marks the course for others" and "guides by example." Leaders can expect no more effort from their followers than they put forth personally. Leaders love to labor and they love their labor.

• Leaders Are Earnest. The word earnest means to be "serious and intense," "zealous and sincere" and "focused on the most important matters." One of the great characteristics of leadership may be the ability to discern what is important that needs attention, and what is trivial that can be ignored.

• Leaders Maintain Positive Attitudes. As I grow older, I become more convinced that maintaining a positive attitude is critical to personal success. I am also convinced that it is easy to maintain a good attitude simply by following the advice found in Philippians 4:8.

• Leaders Are Diligent. The word diligent describes those who are "hardworking," those who work with "careful, steady effort" and those who are "dependable and steadfast." Great leaders from history have demanded diligence from those around them. They got it because they set the example with their own diligence.

• Leaders Are Filled With Enthusiasm. W. Clement Stone described enthusiasm as "inspiration to action." Leaders are inspired to act. And they inspire action in others. When people are filled with excitement they talk. When they are filled with enthusiasm they act. Actions have always spoken louder than words and produced more results.

• Leaders are Responsible. I've noticed that difficult tasks tend to move toward those who are willing to do them. Personal growth comes from exercising your will to accomplish, and accepting the responsibility for getting it done. Harry Truman had a sign on his desk that read, "The buck stops here."

• Leaders are Self-confident. I believe there is a direct link between confidence and capacity. As you grow in the assurance of your abilities you acquire the capacity to achieve more. More than 2,000 years ago, Publius Vergilius Maro - the Roman poet better known as Virgil - wrote: "They can do all because they think they can."

• Leaders are Humble. All great leaders give credit to others. Alexander Pope wrote "Who builds a church to God and not to fame, will never mark the marble with his name." I might add that the more you blow your own whistle the more likely you are to run out of steam.

• Leaders have Integrity. To

A computer expo that's geared for kids

Y2K Bears, keeping your kids safe on the Internet topics of expo

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

A 12-foot boa constrictor, a guitar-playing Dalmatian and Y2K bears these are just a few of the attractions that will delight children at Saturday's Computer Country Expo at the Lake County Fairgrounds.

For one day each month, thousands of people attend the exposition to buy computer parts, access information, network, and connect with computer clubs. But this month, the event will particularly focus on fun and beneficial programs for children.

The workshop, "How to Keep Your Kids Safe on the Internet," is among the highlights. Michael Orsoline, an investigator with the Illinois Attorney General's Office, will present an interactive program geared to educate children about Internet safety. The hour-long presentation will also feature Microsoft's Safekids Program for Parents and Children.

Before or after the workshop, children can see exotic animals from the Wildlife Federation, a non-profit zoological society. Kids can pose with an albino boa constrictor, a tiger cub, macaws and several other animals. Their photos can be made into mousepads or screen savers.

And then there's Bernie the guitar-playing Dalmatian. Dressed as a fireman, Bernie sings songs like "911," which educate children about fire prevention and what to do in case of a fire. Underneath the Bernie costume is Mike Sullivan, a local firefighter of 14 years.

The "Share Something Special with a Child" program provides an opportunity for patrons to help less fortunate children. A table will be set up for attendees to donate computer equipment and supplies. All equipment will be used for special needs children attending Carter's Christian Education Center in Milwaukee, Wis. The Center is particularly looking for new or used computers (486 or better), color monitors, children's software, mice, pads, printers, soundcards, keyboards and speakers.

Children will also have the opportunity to listen to live MIDI music by Ernie Gardner, who enhances his music with computer technology and a laptop.

Finally, many kids will go home with Y2K bears. Similar to Beanie Babies, these stuffed animals will be raffled off throughout the day.

The event also offers plenty of opportunities for computer users to network and expand their knowledge. Demonstrations of new technologies, including Visual Mail and 3-D Virtual Reality, will take place throughout the day, along with workshops such as "How to Build Your Own Computer."

Job seekers can meet with representatives from a wide variety of companies, including Manpower, Ryder and Lakeland Newspapers. Representatives from schools, such as PC Teacher in Libertyville and Computer Development Services, will be on hand to explain their programs. All attendees will also receive free gifts, such as a diagnostic disk to gear up for the year 2000 and computer magazines.

"It's a user-friendly, grass roots show for the entire family," said co-producer Nancy Priestly. "Prices are up to 70 percent off from what you would find in a store."

Priestly and her sister, Susan McLeran, started the monthly expo in August 1998. While their first show drew 775 people, they now attract approximately 3,000.

"Every month we re-invent the show," said Priestly. "Technology is always changing with new things coming out all the time. We travel to different shows, see what's new and contact the companies."

The March 27 Computer Country Expo will take place from 9:30 to 3 p.m. at the Lake County Fairgrounds, at routes 45 and 120, in Grayslake. Admission is $6. Visit the event's web site at www.ccxpo.com, for a map and a discount coupon.

'Boatman's' death leaves community grieving

First starBank manager leaves void in Chain O'Lakes community

By TINA SWIECH
Correspondent

The man who came to be known by many in the Chain O'Lakes banking business as "the boatman," has left family, friends and the staff at Firststar Bank, in mourning.

Thomas Edward Brand, 47, died unexpectedly Thursday, March 18, near his home in Round Lake Beach. According to his wife Rachel, he suffered a massive heart attack that afternoon. He had no history of illness prior to his passing.

Funeral services were held at Strang Funeral Chapel in Grayslake on March 24. Interment was to be held at Highland Memorial Park Cemetery in Libertyville. The family asked that memorials be made out to the American Heart Association in his memory, in lieu of flowers.

For the last several years, Brand was the hub manager of Firststar Bank, and oversaw operations of the Fox Lake Bank and also branches of Firststar Bank in Mundelein, Libertyville, Vernon Hills and Crystal Lake. He worked out of the Fox Lake Bank office for the past 12 years.

He was born on the Northwest side of Chicago in 1951, and graduated from Foreman High School in Chicago. Brand entered the banking vocation at age 22. "It was the only profession he's ever had," said Rachel. "He was in the business for 25 years."

He began working at the Fox Lake Bank headquarters, when it was the Fox Lake State Bank, which then changed hands and names several times including, First Colonial and the current Firststar.

Longtime Fox Lake Bank employee, Jean Wilkinson, worked side by side with Brand since he first came to the bank a dozen years ago. Wilkinson, senior operations manager at Firststar, said she couldn't bring herself to go into work last week, upon hearing the news of Brand's death. A tearful Wilkinson said, "I was the first person he talked to when he got there (at the bank). I was the administrative assistant at the time. We were both very different, but for some reason we seemed to have gotten thrown together on almost every job."

Wilkinson admitted to being more of the "serious-minded" type, while Brand was more fun loving and jovial. Though in the beginning of their work relationship, their differences at times would "infuriate me" she explained. "At the same time he was endearing, with almost a 'little-boy' quality. He had a special gift which could make me laugh, make me feel happy."

Wilkinson agreed that the two different personalities ultimately complimented each other.

"He was my buddy. He was my friend. I like to think we had a real nice respect for each other. We just made things work well for each other."

Wilkinson, said Brand, was a loan officer when he started at the Fox Lake State Bank. When there was a potential boat purchase in the works, Brand was the officer of choice for many area marinas. He soon adopted the title, "the boatman," which stuck with him in his circle of friends and colleagues.

Brand was a member of the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Chamber President Cindy Irwin described how she remembers him. "I thought he was a very active Chamber member. He was always there to give a hand. He was especially instrumental in helping Pete Jaktas with the Mineola Fireworks fund (annual Fox Lake Independence Day event)," Irwin explained. "I think the Fox Lake community will definitely miss Tom."

Firststar Bank Assistant Manager Jamie Williams, began working at the Fox Lake Bank while he was still attending Grant Community High School. "I worked with Tom for eight years, and of that eight years he was my direct boss for three years," he explained. "I remember when I met him. He gave me my first loan."

Williams started out at the bank as maintenance boy, and worked his way up the ladder. He credits much of his success and his stay in the banking industry to Brand. "Tom encouraged me. He was my mentor. He was a man of much knowledge and he shared that with me. I could go to him for anything, no matter what it was." Williams paused for a moment, "All of us at the bank are going to miss him very much."

For 13 years, Rick Neff of Mundelein played softball with Brand on the "Old Munich Inn" team based in Deerfield. He and Brand were friends even longer. "He became my banker. I'm an accountant, and we worked together. He helped us buy our house recently," said Neff.

He told one particular story about his friend which he says he would like to share with others. "Years ago, when his son Adam was about 5 years old, the boy came running onto the softball field with a handful of dandelions. Tom, who was shortstop called a time-out during the game that we were already losing. He went to be with his son for a moment and to thank him for picking the bunch of flowers for him. That's the kind of guy he was with everyone. He always had time for you, no matter what was going on."

Rachel, who would have been married to Brand for seven years next month, described her husband as a man with a passion for many things, but a passion particularly for family. "He loved my children, Zora and Vance, and Austin too, as if they were his own children," she said. She added that he had a special bond with his parents, and that it was not unusual for him to call his mother three times a day just to talk to her. This made it especially hard for Rachel to call Mr. and Mrs. Brand from Condell Medical Center to tell them the news about their son. "He didn't even have a second chance," said Rachel. "He died within about 10 minutes."

Wilkinson stated how the future looks for her without Brand being at the bank. "I'm having a real hard time picturing working without him. He always made hard jobs easier. He had that light side to him that lightened everything up." Then she added, choking on her words before saying goodbye. "He was a nice guy. He was just a real nice guy."

Brand is survived by his wife, Rachel (nee Evans); loving father of Adam Brand, age 17 of Mundelein, Zora (Todd) Levandowski and Vance (Sonja) Wollmuth; grandfather of Austin Quentin Wollmuth. He is also survived by his parents Ronald and June Brand of Chicago and a brother, James (Donna) Brand of Elgin. ## TAYLOR: Learning the art of leadership will keep you in game me integrity is "the quality of sound moral principles," "dealing with honesty and sincerity" and "avoiding spin, lies, and strategic omissions." Remember this: Truth is eternal, lies are temporary. A friend in the insurance business says that honesty is the only policy, but there aren't nearly enough policyholders.

• Leaders Prioritize Their Lives. Leaders work on the most important tasks first. Their lives are structured around their most important priorities. Matthew 6:33 offers great advice in the area. When your priorities are right, living is great.

The following books provide many great leadership examples and further direction: "The Bible," "Developing the Leader Within You" by John C. Maxwell and "The Book of Leadership Wisdom," by various business leaders.

Don Taylor is the co-author of Up Against the Wal-Marts. You may write to him in care of Minding Your Own Business, PO Box 67, Amarillo, TX 79105.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am a supervisor for the past 6 years with (name withheld). I have many friends there and although I supervise some of these people, I still go out to lunch with them and occasionally socialize outside of work. Quite often when situations arise these employees feel comfortable enough to come to me with their problems or concerns and bounce them off of me to see what I think. Today I found myself in such a situation while at lunch with a co-worker who needed a shoulder to cry on after she was yelled at by the boss. I let her go on and on about how she is going to leave at the first possible chance stalling abusive work environment, which by the way was highly exaggerated. Then she blurted out that they can keep their job for $(blank) per hour. Once I heard and realized that she was earning more than me I just about died. I of course could not tell her that she was earning a higher salary than me for the embarrassment of it alone. I waited until after I returned to the office and immediately told my manager that I wanted to speak with him when he had a minute. He said how about now? So there I was telling him that I needed a raise and that I cannot believe that after working here for 6 years, that the receptionist who has been here less than 6 months is making more than me. The expression on his face made me realize this may have been a mistake. He then asked me where I had heard this and I went on to explain that this person was blowing off steam at lunch after being yelled at and just blurted out the comment as she had said it. He in turn asked me to go calm myself down and he would be back to me shortly. And he was. Almost 2 and a half hours had past and I was called in to the manager's office and told that the receptionist is no longer employed with the company. They released her for discussing salary which by the company handbook is a violation and immediate termination. The manager then told me that she had lied to me about what she was making and that he thinks she did it to get a rise out of me. Feeling stupid I left his office. Later that evening I called this now former co-worker to find out what had happened. We agreed to meet the next day for an early breakfast since she had to now go out job hunting. During breakfast I came right out and asked her if she was really making as much as she had stated. She pulled out her check that she was handed the day before and showed it to me. She was telling the truth and without letting her know my total disappointment, I kept my cool. When I went to work that morning I asked to speak with my manager again and I let him know that I know for a fact that the person was telling the truth because I saw it with my own eyes. He said he would get back to me. Less than one hour later I was fired. Since when is it legal to fire a person for asking for a raise? What steps should I take to file a grievance? L.R. Kenosha

Your question about the legalities of firing a person for asking for a raise, is a far cry from the actual incident that you have described in your letter. First, you never ASKED for a raise, you let him know that you couldn't believe the receptionist made more money than you. Second, you discussed salaries which is a ground for termination in itself. And third, let's not even get into the unprofessional way you seemed to have approached your manager. And for the icing on the cake, you went back for more when you informed him that you saw the paycheck, thus making him look the fool. Let it go, it's over. Learn from this and move on.
